Occasional and O.M.A. Notes.

The Class List of Honour Mods. at Oxford deserves the first place in this month's Ulula. There were four Old Mancunians in the First Class. Winchester also had four Firsts. No other English School had more than one. Even in "the old Walker days" nothing was done to beat this. Our best congratulations to those who deserved the palm and won it: R. H. Barrow, Gordon M. Hewart, A. M. Stephens, J. C. Stokoe.

Founder's Day, Friday, May 22. Service at 12-30.

School re-opens Wednesday, June 10.

O.M.A. Garden Party, July 11.

Speech Day, Monday, July 27, at 2-30 p.m.

School re-opens Thursday, September 10, at 9-5 a.m.

As already announced, the preacher at the Founder's Day service will be Canon Peter Green.

The School Concert took place on April 4th, and was a great success. We are reluctantly obliged to hold over an account of it for the present. The lacrosse reports are also unavoidably postponed for lack of space.

On April 23rd Mr. Jepson completed 30 years' service at the School, and in the whole of that time he has only been off duty two hours through illness. This is a good record, but it is quite overshadowed by that of Mr. Pollitt, who began in January, 1871, and is still the same alert figure that he was in those far-off days. Evidently one of the healthiest parts of Manchester is Long Millgate.

Our best congratulations to Sir A. A. Haworth on being elected Chairman of the Congregational Union.

The engineering workshop, fully equipped by the generosity of Sir William Mather, will be formally opened by him on Tuesday, May 19th. We hope to give details of the plant in our next number.

We regret to record the death, on April 4th, of Sir Richard Mottram (O.M.), four times Mayor of Salford.

With reference to a letter which appeared in our last issue, Mr. V. L. Wähltuch writes:—"I cordially support Mr. Frank D. Dewes in his suggestion re a club in Manchester for O.M.'s, where we could house the various societies, and will gladly support such a scheme."

Mr. John Angell, F.C.S., F.I.C., formerly Physics Master at the School, completed his 90th year a few weeks ago, and was the recipient of numerous congratulations from old pupils and admirers, and of laudatory articles in the local press. Mr. Angell was one of the pioneers of science teaching in the North of England, and indeed in the whole country. He was among the founders of the original Birkbeck School in London and became its honorary secretary; he took charge of the day classes, and afterwards of the evening classes, at the Mechanics' Institution in David Street (now Princess Street), Manchester, which has since developed into the Municipal School of Technology, and in 1869 he came to the M.G.S., where his work is well remembered. Ulula joins in the hope that his present good health and energy may continue for many years.

With regard to a note in the October number, we regret that Mr. G. B. Sharples' work on the new docks at Bombay appears to have been pitched in too high a strain. We are asked to state that the Engineers in charge of this difficult work have been Mr. E. P. Rowden and Mr. J. S. Young. Our note seems to have given the impression that Mr G. B. Sharples had been entrusted with the whole direction of this huge enterprise. This is not the case. We are glad to see Mr. Sharples back again in England.

Mr. J. H. Fowler, formerly Sixth Form master at the School, now at Clifton College, gave a lecture to the Upper Classical forms on April 27th, the subject being "Timoleon."

The Inaugural Dinner of the new London Section was held at the Holborn Restaurant on the 28th March, and proved a most delightful function. The toast of the School was proposed by Mr. A. J. Ashton, K.C., Recorder of Manchester, whilst that of the new Section was proposed by Mr. Paton. The Chairman of the London Section proposed the health of the visitors, which was responded to by Mr. H. Sidebotham, and Mr. Gordon Hewart, K.C., in an exceedingly humorous speech, proposed the toast of the O.M.A. The speeches were excellent, and as the Manchester Guardian afterwards said, "If good after-dinner speaking is what makes a successful dinner, the first dinner of London O.M.'s was a great success."

We hope members are keeping open the date fixed for the O.M. Garden Party, i.e., July 11th. In addition to the usual attractions, we are hoping to add to the interest of the occasion by a variety of side shows, but as to these particulars will be given in our next issue. Sheridan's "St. Patrick's Day" will be performed during the afternoon.

The season which has just ended has been quite the most successful in the history of the Lacrosse Section. Whilst the first team finished second in the Second Division of the League, the "A" team went through the season without losing a league match, and will accordingly be promoted to the First Division next year. In addition to this, an enthusiastic "B" team has been running throughout the season, and the prospects of the Club were never brighter than at the present time. A cordial welcome will be extended to any players who are leaving School at Midsummer and would care to join the Section.

Congratulations to O. J. Knudsen (1907) on again winning the Frankenberg Cup.

It is intended to hold the "Camp Meeting" of the O.M. Territorial Society in Whit-week, most probably on the Thursday or Friday. As it is not possible to make definite arrangements till after arrival in camp, members (other than those serving in the 6th Manchester and actually present in camp) are requested to send in their names at once to Col.-Sgt. Freshwater or Corporal F. D. Webb if they wish to have further particulars sent to them.

We publish, at the end of this number, the additional list of O.M.A. members since the last issue.

Contributions, other than those relating to the O.M.A., will be received by Mr. C. L. Barnes, at the School.

O.M. Chronicle.

Under this heading are recorded appointments and successes of O.M.'s, to supplement the Honours List, which is more especially concerned with academic distinctions. We shall be glad if readers will be good enough to keep "Ulula" well posted in this branch.

Mr. T. M. Ainscough, M.Com., F.R.G.S., has been appointed to "conduct a special mission of inquiry into the trade conditions in China and the prospects for the development of British trade in that country." Mr. Ainscough left the School in 1902, and has spent several years in China. He recently gave lectures at the Manchester Chamber of Commerce and the Manchester Geographical Society on his experiences. He leaves for China at the end of the present month.

F. N. Worthington has been appointed Assistant Surveyor of Taxes at Stoke-on-Trent.

F. G. Harriman, M.A., has edited a selection from "Les Misérables" entitled "Insurrection à Paris" for Messrs. Harrap.

B. J. Cramer, M.Sc., has published a paper on "The determination of carbon monoxide in air" in the Analyst.

N. H. P. Whitley (1901) and B. F. Robinson (1904) played for the North of England against the South in the Lacrosse match which was recently played in Manchester, whilst A. M. Stephens (1912) was one of the Southern representatives. Another O.M. in the person of Amos Davies (1903) was selected as reserve for the North team.

"Second-Lieutenant L. H. Brammall (3rd Batt. King's Own Regiment) on probation, is confirmed in his rank." (London Gazette, May 18th.)

Mr. W. Maxwell Reekie (1885) has been elected President of the Manchester Athenæum Graphic Club for the ensuing year.

Captain W. R. Norman Smithard (1895), R.A.M.C.T., attached to East Lancs. Divisional T. and S. Column, has been gazetted Major.

Mr. Gilbert Waterhouse, M.A., has issued a book entitled "The Literary Relations of England and Germany in the Seventeenth Century" (Cambridge University Press, 7s. 6d. net), a copy of which he has kindly presented to the Modern Sixth Library.

"Lonesome Like," a new short play by Mr. Harold Brighouse (1899), has been recently produced by Miss Horniman's Company at the Coronet Theatre, London, and was well received. "Garside's Career" has also been produced in London and has met with most favourable reception.

In Memoriam.

H. R. OLIVER (O.M.)

Harry Oliver began his career at the School in September, 1900. He was placed in the Preparatory Form (F.F.P.) and worked his way steadily up the School—never missing a promotion—winning the esteem of his masters by his steady industry and sincerity. At Midsummer, 1904, he had entered the Modern Sixth. Though of a somewhat retiring nature and diffident about his own powers, he was very responsive to kindness and gained in steadfastness of purpose and resolve each term. Had his health permitted he would have gained a University scholarship easily—as others did who were often lower in the Form than he was. As it was, each Midsummer term brought with it a recurrence of ill-health, and Oliver's conscientious work was not rewarded by public recognition and honours. For three years (till 1907) this struggle between intellectual strength and bodily weakness continued.

Oliver was anxious to take his part in the battle of life, and right well would he have upheld his cause. As is so often the case with men of quiet ways, he had a strength of will and a perseverance which enabled him to fight against and rise superior to a physical weakness under which many another would have succumbed. If Oliver's name is not enrolled among those of the Modern Sixth who have won prizes and distinctions, I shall always remember him as one of whom we were proud, whose influence was for good, and for whom I felt a strong affection.

An Easter Trek in Normandy.

On April 19th 47 Grammar School boys, with four O.M.'s, in charge of Mr. Hope, left Manchester on a 10 days' trek to Normandy. After a fairly rough crossing, lasting about six hours, which to some of us seemed more like twenty, we arrived at Le Havre early on Friday morning, and without losing much time went to a restaurant. In the afternoon we walked about six miles and encamped for the night. The following day we did not overwork ourselves, only walking a short distance to a place called St. Romaine. There we were kindly allowed to camp in a beautiful garden belonging to M. Roussel, the ex-mayor of the town. He was very hospitable, and put us up for two nights, during which we used their cook and kitchen just as if they were our own. The town team challenged us at football, and after a very sporting game, England, under the captaincy of "Jobi" Thompson, beat France by 5 goals to 3. On Easter Sunday we all went to church. Next day we walked about 15 miles. In the morning we went to Lillebonne, and visited the famous Roman ruins, proceeding in the afternoon to St. Arnould, where, although we only found a small shop, the people were so obliging that they sold us nearly everything they had. On Easter Tuesday we made another good step towards Rouen, in the morning walked to Caudebec, where we went through the famous old cathedral, and later went on to Ste. Marguerite, camping down in a lovely spot at the foot of a forest. Next day we passed through Duclair, and spent the night at St. Martin where we had a huge fire, round which we all listened to a thrilling story told with much vigour by the one and only "George" Jadhav, or, as he is better known, "Le Prince des Indes." On Thursday we only carried our tents for about three miles, and left them at a farm. The idea was to camp not too near Rouen. Thus relieved, we marched, to the sound of bugles and drums, into the town.

During our stay of three days at Rouen we had a fine time. At Canteleu we found an English boarding school, and by pure chance "Dish" Jones happened to meet a cousin of his there! On Saturday evening, after having met a number of French scouts, who enjoyed a night with us, we started on our way back, and arrived home on Sunday night, sorry that our holiday had come to an end so soon.

Many things contributed to the great success of this trek. In the first place the weather, which is the main factor in keeping everybody cheerful, was absolutely magnificent. Everybody we met proved extremely kind; not only people like M. Roussel and his family, and Miss Stewart, the head mistress of the boarding-school at Canteleu—who boiled us a huge quantity of potatoes,—but also the farmers, innkeepers, and everyone whom we met. Our travelling was done splendidly, owing to the excellent arrangements of the Gt. Northern Railway Co. Our thanks are due in the first place to Mr. Hope, and he himself wishes to thank the officers—Messrs. D. S. Hodgson-Jones, Watson, R. Williamson, and H. Ormerod (O.M.'s), for their splendid backing; the drummers, buglers and flag-bearers, who did a good bit towards keeping us on the go; the tent-sergeants, and especially the aides-de-camp, Fasnacht and Jadhav, “for their unceasing and unselfish toil for the good of their fellow-nurslings of the mighty Owl.”

On Friday, the 8th, the party sat down to tea in the School dining-room, and presentations were afterwards made to Mr. Hope and Jadhav.

The total cost of the trip, fares included, worked out at £3 2s. 2d. for the seniors, and £2 2s. 6d. for the 35 juniors.

M.G.S. in a New Rôle.

In spite of the absence of a considerable number of School scouts with Mr. Hope on the Normandy trek, the scout rally at Fallowfield on Easter Saturday was well supported by the M.G.S. It was owing to a request of Sir Robert Baden-Powell that the tremendous idea of representing an Old English Fair, to be conducted exclusively by the M.G.S., was inaugurated. Upwards of 200 boys offered their services, and for days previous there was buffoonery of all kinds in the gymnasium, weight lifting, ludicrous boxing, nigger minstrelsy, and the like. Scoutmaster Attwell, who was sent down from London to superintend the arrangements, instructed (and incidentally amused) the artistes in their various rôles.

A dress rehearsal was held on the Wednesday in Easter week, and gave promise of success in the real event. Thanks to Mr. Ashby and his staff of helpers, the various preparations were successfully made on Saturday morning, and all was arranged for the great affair of the afternoon. Fortunately the weather, which at first was far from promising, greatly improved, and the sun shone most of the afternoon. By three o'clock—the time of commencement—all the artistes had arrived and the sight of the multi-coloured costumes was indeed striking. The proceedings opened by a procession of performers past the Chief Scout, who was entrenched in the grand stand. The M.G.S. performers presented a ludicrous appearance. Headed by two horsemen (the horses designed by Mr. Ashby), the procession must have startled many of the spectators with its terrifying combinations of colours.

The Fair itself was a huge success; almost all the centre of the enclosure was occupied. The principal attraction was the Maypole—brought specially from Knutsford—where an exceedingly well-trained set of dancers gave a fine exhibition. Other outstanding features were the country dancing of girls from the Municipal High School, and the morris dancing of boys from St. Joseph's Schools, Longsight. The greasy pole remained unclimbed, owing, it is conjectured, to the lavish spread of soft soap upon it. The nigger minstrels provided much amusement and perhaps some little "music" in various parts of the ground, and narrowly escaped imprisonment in the stocks by the police, who were present in force. Of the clowns, buffoons, circus-men, the organised crowd who, with a characteristic English failing, overcrowded the canteen and refreshment stall, the skittle alleys, and the many other attractions, almost too numerous to mention—quid loquar? The whole affair was a huge success, and a great credit to all who took part in it. Thanks are due especially to Mrs. Collinge and the High Master, without whose unceasing efforts the Fair would have been out of the question, and to Mr. King, who so ably played the difficult rôle of Master of Ceremonies on the ground. F. W. L.

"Beauty and the Barge."

On March 28th the O.M.A. Dramatic Society inaugurated its career by a performance of "Beauty and the Barge," by Messrs. W. W. Jacobs and L. N. Parker, at the Milton Hall. The idea of a girl running away from home and becoming a passenger on a barge is full of possibilities to a playwright; she turns the heads of the captain and every man on board, and interferes sadly with the discipline of the boat. We have an inkling of what is about to happen from the scene in the village "pub" before the start, and when Lieut. Seton Boyne takes the place of one of the sailors the course of true love is pretty well defined. There are plenty of amusing episodes, in which all the characters have their share; in particular Captain Barley, of the "Heart in Hand," the gardener, John Dibbs, his rival in the affections of Mrs. Baldwin; Ethel Smedley, the Major's daughter, who causes all the trouble; Augustus Smith, the love-sick third hand, whose idiotic appearance and behaviour were splendid; and Mrs. Porter, a landlady who seemed to the manner born. Thanks chiefly to Mr. Garnett, the performance passed off extremely well, and if the Society can maintain this standard its success is assured. The complete cast is as follows:—

Captain James Barley (of the "Heart in Hand"), Mr. Alan Pitt; Major Smedley, Mr. S. V. Tallantire; Lieut. Seton Boyne, R.N., Mr. Sidney Naylor; Herbert Manners, Mr. H. T. Martin; Tom Codd (First Mate on the "Heart in Hand"), Mr. W. T. Barnes; Augustus Smith (Third Hand on the "Heart in Hand"), Mr. Philip M. George; John Dibbs (Major Smedley's Gardener), Mr. K. W. Chambers, LL.B.; George Porter (landlord of the "Old Ship"), Mr. G. Alcock; Ted, Joe, Bill, Alf (Sailor Men), Messrs. C. E. Lightfoot, H. Naylor, T. S. Archer, C. D. Naylor; Mrs. Smedley, Miss Olive Beech; Ethel Smedley, Miss Muriel Walters; Lucy Dallas, Miss W. Michaelis; Mrs. Porter, Miss Mary Bradley; Mrs. Baldwin, Miss Margery Pitt.

The Mendelssohn orchestra gave selections by Sullivan, Edward German, Blankenberg and others, in excellent style.

The Wind's Breath.

A ROUTE-MARCHER'S SONG.

O, the sweet breath, the wind's breath, that calls across the hills !
The dew is on the foxglove, the snail is on the thorn !
A clear voice is calling down among the rills,
A glory's in the sunrise, a glamour in the morn.
The bright lark is singing all to greet the sun ;
The melancholy owl is drowsing into sleep.
Awake, O my comrades, the wonder is begun,
The magic of the marching, strong and deep.

O, the salt breath, the wind's breath, that calls along the shores !
It rustles in the bracken and sobs amid the pine.
O follow, follow, follow, as it sweeps across the moors !
The gorselands are golden, the new skies shine.
Awake to the glories, the perils of the way,
A pack upon the shoulder, a stout staff to hold.
Awake to the road that stretches thro' the day,
The magic of the marching, crest and wold.

O, the strong breath, the wind's breath, that calls across the heights !
The gray crags stand like giants to the skies.
The sunlight is streaming, the keen air bites ;
A brave light starts and glistens in our eyes.
O, the triumph of our hearts as we gaze from the peak
On the sea, on the plains, on the great land-scars !
Our glad lips are closed : 'tis our souls alone that speak
In the magic of the marching that leads to the stars.

O, the soft breath, the wind's breath, that calls us to rest,
And smooths the hot brow with a sweet cool hand !
The kind sun is sinking down into the west,
The stars shine forth on the twilight land.
And here shall we rest us, here amid the corn,
For the last bird is silent, the mountains sleep.
Rest till the wind calls to face the glowing morn,
And the magic of the marching, strong and deep.

L. GOLDING.

An O.M. in the East.

A well-known Old Boy writes, in a private letter, from Malaysia as follows :—

“ ‘ Will you come on jungle work? ’ ” said the Doc. one night at the Club—for out-of-the-world Kehah boasts of such a civilised institution. It was a sporting offer and attractive to a bahara mari (new-comer), whose knowledge of the land was not even co-extensive with the padi fields he could see on his journey to and from the office. There was an outbreak of cholera in one or two of the villages eight miles away, and Doc. had to go over. Naturally I jumped at the offer, and we began to discuss our plans and make preparations.

The following day at 6-30 a.m. we met—the Doc, Police Commissioner and self, and our boys—outside the Bakar Bata (brick-field) where the Adviser's house stands, along the Alov Star river. We were ferried across by a Malay woman (!) to a Chinese Kampang, where we got a guide. Our path was about seven miles as the crow flies ; our actual course was a bee-line with all a human's mazy imitations of that naturally meandering creature. After an excursion into blunderdom we struck a trail across a padi field, and then proceeded in file. The Doc, the Police Inspector and myself, accompanied in the rear by our “ boys ” (servants) and a harmless lunatic, Mohammad Yunus, whom we picked up on our way. The trail led always at right angles away from our destination through half-dried swamps and marshes and deep pools ; we floundered up to the middle in mire. We passed by small groups of natives working in the padi fields, and exchanged greetings, nearly always accompanied by a splash and a stumble. At length we saw a line of trees, and knew we were approaching a kampone (a collection of dingy attap-houses) alongside a river. And then I was shown the cause of cholera. Approaching these houses we saw “ wells ”—the tongue blisters with the application of the word to filthy square pools, most of them with a thick coating of green slime and some of them containing slush thick enough for a knife to cut ; and close by these wretched people kept their jambans and toilet arrangements! "It wouldn't be so bad," said the Doc, "if at least they'd boil this stuff"; but the Malay is the laziest son of mother Earth, even though incidentally he may have solved the riddle of happiness, as our Irish Police Commissioner remarked.

So we went on to the villages, crossing streamlets on rickety planks, over plains of half-ripened padi to the Kubang Rotan, where a Chinaman had died. We burnt his room and effects, and in the process unearthed a bag of lime which we at once appropriated, to the huge gratification of the Malay orderly—for the Malay, though kind at bottom, detests the Chinese, and enjoys any action which makes John Chinaman pay. Here we refreshed ourselves from our own supplies, and after an after-tiffin nap at the Penghulus (village priests' house), sailed down stream on a prau to the Kuala Kedah (on our way calling at a village where the Doc found his case strolling about and smoking a cheroot in sublime detachment from things sub-solar). And here we fired three houses where cholera had raged and dispossessed three families—happily for all parties the Government grants restitution. At Kuala Kedah we awaited the arrival of "S.S. Kedah," where we regaled ourselves luxuriously on drinks and bed-chairs as we sailed up stream for home.

Since then I have been put in charge of the Water Supply for Aloe Star. Kedah has no good water, which it has in consequence to import from Penang, and every day I superintend the distribution thereof."

Visit to Hugh Oldham Lads' Club.

The annual visit to Hugh Oldham Lads' Club took place on Friday, March 27th, when a large number of boys profited by the opportunity of having a really fine evening's enjoyment. We were welcomed in the Gymnasium by Mr. Godlee, who was unnecessarily lavish in his praises of the School's generosity to the Club, and immediately made us feel quite at home.

His speech was followed by various boxing contests, and the subsequent gymnastic display left most of us gasping. Adjourning to the concert hall, we were entertained by a young comedian who proved very popular with his audience. The farce entitled

"The Area Belle" was then presented, and the good acting and laughable situations produced great amusement. The evening was concluded by an excellent repast in the refreshment room, after which Mr. Jones, in the unavoidable absence of the High Master, in a few sincere words thanked the officials of the Club for their kindness in providing such a reception.

Lieut. Mumford.

In the Western Command Orders, issued April 30th, appears :

Officers Training Corps—Manchester Grammar School contingent :

Second Lieutenant E. M. Mumford, to be Lieutenant.

Lieut. Mumford resigned a commission in the Special Reserve last summer to become an officer of the School contingent and was with us in camp. He did much to help us when our contingent first started, then being a sergeant in the University Contingent. He holds "A" and "B" certificates and went to Hythe School of Musketry in August, 1911. We are glad to have an old boy of the School with us, who can understand fully all the helps and drawbacks which the Manchester Grammar School offers to boys who serve in the O.T.C.

In civilian life Mr. Mumford is private assistant to Dr. G. J. Fowler, Consulting Chemist to the Manchester Corporation Rivers Committee, the Admiralty, the India Office, and the Metropolitan Sewage Board of New York.
This would argue that Mr. Mumford has enough work without adding to it O.T.C. activities. But he is an enthusiast. He shot for Manchester University in the Imperial Universities Cup Competition, scoring 34 out of 35 points at 1,000 yards. Amidst all his O.T.C. work at the University he found time to take B.Sc. Chemistry Honours in 1911, and had the degree of M.Sc. conferred on him in 1913 for research work.

His recent record reads :—Elected Research Fellow to the Royal Board of Agriculture, 1913; Fellow of Manchester University, 1914; Fellow of the Royal Microscopical Society, 1914; Member of the Royal Sanitary Society, 1913.
He has contributed papers to the following scientific journals: Journal of the Chemical Society, Journal of the Royal Sanitary Institute, Journal of the Royal Microscopical Society. He was at the School from January, 1904, to July, 1908, and Mr. Jones can count him among the many who received their first introduction to science at his hands.

Night Operations with the O.T.C.

The School corps was fortunate in obtaining the opportunity on the night of May 2nd of joining the University corps in their annual night operations. As last year, a magnificent country for manœuvre was found on Lord Newton's estate at Disley, where almost fifty of the School corps bivouacked along with the University men.

The operations were divided into two distinct parts; arriving as we did about 4 p.m., we had sufficient time to devote to day manœuvres. Accordingly the School corps under Captain Potts, impersonating the Mexican army under Huerta, was sent to hold a long ridge against the Americans who were attacking with overwhelming numbers under the University commanders. The inferior numbers of the Mexicans, wisely abandoning the almost indefensible hill, made a brave stand on the edge of a wood which terminated the ridge. The main body of the Americans attacked in front, but a flanking party, which must have been annihilated several times, succeeded in forcing a retreat. The Mexicans retired on to their reserves under Lieut. Mumford, and succeeded in obtaining a position behind a stone wall, whence the Americans foolishly tried to dislodge them with a charge.

The second part of the manœuvres took place at night over the same ground, and with the same forces, except that a section of the Americans was attached to the Mexican force. Captain Potts, whose object was to defend an ammunition waggon and afterwards to retreat north-westwards, determined to hold the ridge. Here he posted the transferred Americans, one of whom, when marching into position with the Mexicans who were leading the column, was heard to say, "Somebody tell the young beggars in front to march slower"—an incidental, if ungrammatical, tribute to the marching of the School corps. The remainder of his forces he placed in defence of the waggon, sending out patrols in all directions to prevent any flanking movement of the enemy. The enemy sent a weak force to attack in front, to draw the Mexican fire, while their main body made a détour and came up in rear. Owing to the darkness the Mexican patrol in this direction failed to do its work, so that the first intimation of the American attack was the cheer that preceded the charge. Of course, being vastly superior in numbers, they captured the waggon and compelled a hasty retreat. This reverse was rather unfortunate, seeing that Captain Potts was complimented on the disposition of his forces, which would certainly have resisted the enemy's attack but for the failure of the patrol.

About midnight supper was served out on the bivouac ground; after which a chance of a few hours' sleep was granted. It is to be feared that most fellows did not take advantage of the full number of hours, with the result that the reveillé at six o'clock was vastly welcome. Battalion drill, followed by breakfast, and church service, which was held in camp, were made rather uncomfortable by the rain, which had commenced to fall, but which did not prevent the School corps returning to Manchester with a very pleasant remembrance of the night operations of 1914.

F. W. L.

Literary Society.

On March 16th F. W. Littlewood read a paper on Charlotte Brontë. The interesting biographies of the authoress and her sisters were told in great detail, and throughout closely associated with their works. Practically all Charlotte's life was spent at Haworth in Yorkshire, with the chief exception of three periods, those passed at schools in Casterton and Dewsbury, and at the "Maison d'Education" of Mme. Héger in Brussels. From these three sources she drew most of the characters and incidents of "Jane Eyre," "Shirley," and "Villette;" the charm of these books consisting largely in the skilful use of such material and in the purity of the style. The leading male character in each of the four books is modelled after M. Héger, although it would be pedantic to assume that the characters of the heroes of the "Professor" and "Villette" are primarily biographical. It is in "Villette" that Charlotte Brontë attained the zenith of her powers. Its popularity is largely due to its conventional character. In all her works she broke away from the strait-laced people of Jane Austen, and created beings that live and move.

On March 30th, Mr. T. F. O'Callaghan, of King's College, Cambridge, a former member of the Society, read a paper on "J. M. Synge." Synge's life in Paris and in the Arran Islands, and his tramps in Ireland, were all shown to have had great influence on his work. In Paris he gained a clear-sighted realism and an invaluable gift of fastidious selection; in the Arran Islands he was for ever busy noting down the conversations of the melancholy, fatalistic inhabitants, and among the Irish peasantry he found his ideal language, that which seeks to express Gaelic thoughts in English. The reader of the paper discussed in detail the six dramas of Synge, giving copious readings from each. Of these dramas, the last, "The Playboy of the Western World," by reason of its beauty of language and imagery, and its skilful character-drawing, may be regarded as the supreme achievement of the Irish school. Synge held that the main object of the drama was to amuse and divert, not to discuss moral problems or lay down a system of ethics. Thus he had no sympathy with the modern social drama, and showed scant reverence for the work of Ibsen.

A. M. GIBSON (Hon. Sec.)

Junior Debating Society.

Meetings of the above Society have been held regularly since the last issue of Ulula. The chair has been taken on each occasion by Mr. Hope.

MARCH 20.—Wormald moved "That modern civilisation is on wrong lines, and we should revert with all speed to barbarism." E. J. Martin opposed. Mr. Hope, K. L. P. Martin, Golding, Green and Edwards also spoke. The motion was lost by 14 to 24.

MARCH 27.—Blackwell moved "That in the opinion of this House, the attitude of the Opposition to Home Rule is unwarrantable and impertinent." Mr. Floyd (O.M.) kindly consented to oppose. Burke, Martin, Williams, Matthews, Fasnacht and Edwards followed on one side or the other. Twenty-eight voted for the motion and 17 against.

APRIL 24.—Fasnacht moved "That this House demands the establishment in this country of a Republican form of government." Timperley opposed. Subsequent speakers included Mr. Hope, Golding, Martin, Williams, Edwards and Townsend. The House approved Republicanism by 13 votes to 9.

MAY 8.—Radcliffe moved "That in the opinion of this House the exclusion of Ulster is weak and inexpedient." Kemp led the opposition. Townsend, Timperley, Fasnacht, Wormald and Mr. Hope also made contributions to the debate. The motion was carried by 14 votes to 7. G. E. F.

Photographic Society.

On January 28th Mr. Mayo gave a demonstration on flashlight photography. After giving some valuable hints and warnings on the process, he proceeded to show two ways of producing the necessary flash, both of which proved equally interesting.

On February 11th a demonstration on mounting and trimming prints was given by Mr. Parrott. With regard to mounting, he specially recommended blending the tone of the print with the colour of the mount, so as to enhance its principal portion, or render the tone even throughout, according to the nature of the subject.

On February 25th J. Harari read a paper on sepia toning, in which he explained the action of various toners, and then submitted a few gaslight and bromide prints to the action of the sulphide bath. Good results were obtained.

On March 11th J. R. Parsons gave a short practical demonstration on how to transfer prints on fabrics. The process was especially interesting on account of its novelty. The results obtained were quite satisfactory.

On March 25th an exhibition of hand cameras was held, the owners being called upon to give a brief account of their working and structure. Many of the latest models, fitted with most useful devices, had been specially acquired by Mr. Parrott from a leading firm, and were viewed with marked interest.

J. H.

Model Engineering Society.

On January 21st a paper was read by the Secretary on Railway Coaches regarded from the standpoint of the model-maker. It was followed by a short discussion and an exhibition of three models by J. H. Ward.

On February 4th J. E. Crawshaw exhibited and explained the construction of the parts of a wireless telegraph installation. He connected up the instruments to a small battery, and showed by means of diagrams their use and position in the circuit.

On March 4th a much-appreciated exhibition of aeroplanes was held. Small experimental models were shown by L. H. Riddell and R. Hoffmann, and a well-finished model Blériot, propelled by a powerful elastic motor, was exhibited by Kellner.

On March 18th, by the kindness of the General Manager, the Society paid a visit to the Manchester Corporation School for tram-drivers at Queen's Road Depot. The explanations given by the instructor were heartily enjoyed.

C. S.

On April 1st H. F. Murrell exhibited a model steam-driven cargo boat. After an explanation of the shaping of the hull and the construction of the various deck-fittings, the engine was run under steam.

On April 29th the secretary exhibited a model switch, the construction of which was explained by diagram. A model Forth bridge, by R. Hoffmann, was also on view.

The Athletic Sports.

The annual Athletic Sports were held at Fallowfield on Friday, May 1st. Though the weather was cold, there was a large number of spectators present. The number of entries, 601, shows an advance of 30 on the number for last year, the most popular event being the open mile, for which 130 entered. The Gaskell Challenge Cup for open events was won by J. E. Haygarth (R β), with 34 marks out of a possible 77. The Master's Challenge Cup (for boys under 14) was won by H. Flowers (M.R.a), with 27 marks out of a possible 35.

The Ralph Frankenburg Cup was won by O. J. Knudsen, the winner of the Old Boys' Race.

A new feature was an Inter-Section Marching Race. All members of the O.T.C. not actually engaged in the Finals marched in their sections. The party, 42 all told, went to Urmston by train, and were started at ten minutes' intervals. Cadets wore full marching order, total weight 18½lbs. Some very good marching was shown. Captain Forster, Royal Fusiliers, Adjutant Manchester University, acted as judge, and declared Sergt. Mellor's section to be the winners. The marks were :—No. 3 Section, 145 ; No. 1, 135 ; No. 4, 128 ; No. 2, 126. The times were :—1h. 24m. 47s. ; 1h. 19m. 21s. ; 1h. 24m. 13s. ; 1h. 26m. 3s. The day was ideal for marching, being cold and dry, and the roads were without dust. The winning section finished in fine style, and gained many marks for appearance.

One lady spectator of the finish asked when the boys were to start, and was surprised to find that they showed no signs of fatigue. Five of the marchers figured later in the tug-of-war finals and seemed to pull the better for their walk.

All the arrangements were in the hands of Lieut. E. M. Mumford, and the ship's chronometer with which he timed the start and the finish impressed all who saw it. The judge remarked, in the words of the American, "That is some timepiece."

The Lady Mayoress (Mrs. O'Neill) kindly consented to distribute the prizes.

We take this opportunity of thanking Mr. Merryweather and his colleagues for their exertions in supervising the heats and the arrangements for the Sports.

The following are the marks gained by the various forms :—

Cricket.

M. G. S. v. NEXT XVI.

At the Cliff, on April 25th. School batted first, and in spite of various "ducks," ran up a score of 93 runs. The next XVI then made a very poor attempt to equalise, and there was a continual procession between the pavilion and the wickets.

Result :—M. G. S., 93 ; Next XVI., 34.

M. G. S. v. BROUGHTON 2nd.

At the Cliff on May 2nd. School batted first and put on 92 runs, but Broughton had not much difficulty in beating our score, with six wickets in hand. Considering that Broughton are a good team and were rather lucky, the result is not so bad as it looks.

Result :—Broughton 2nd, 144 (for 8 wickets), 144 ; M. G. S., 92.

M. G. S. v. MANCHESTER UNIVERSITY 2nd.

At the Cliff, on May 6th. The University opened their innings on a very soft pitch, the first wicket falling early. The second, however, increased the score considerably, and wore down the bowling. When their last wicket fell the University had made 124 runs. As it was impossible to win before stumps were drawn, School tried to play out time. At 6-23 our ninth wicket fell, but Thompson (H.) and Bradshaw managed to keep their wickets intact till the end, when the match was declared drawn.

Result :—Manchester University 2nd, 124 ; M. G. S., 83 (for nine wickets).

As will be seen from the above table, the School teams have done exceptionally well this season, even the Second Team, which has been the least successful, having a good record. The First Team owes its success to playing the same men throughout the season. Although the forward line did not combine as well as it could have done, it has been as dangerous as the defence has been safe, as a glance at the goal-average will show.

A little more zeal and ardour on the part of the Second XI. would have made a vast difference to the results of this team. The other teams have been keen and have therefore had successful times, particularly the "Under 14" XI.

We wish to express our sincere gratitude to Mr. Green and Mr. Meek for the trouble they have taken in connection with the football, and also to the masters who have devoted so much of their time at the Cliff and South Manchester to the training and encouraging of the younger boys. A. H. F.

CHARACTERS OF THE TEAM.

- 4 H. G. RHODES (Goal).—Has played consistently well, and at times with brilliance. Saved the side on one notable occasion. Manages all kinds of shots equally well, and clears smartly.
- 2 H. C. ASTLE (Right Back).—A good vigorous back. Strong and unhesitating kick. Should not let his eagerness carry him into the half-back line. Used sound judgment as captain.
- 4 H. THOMPSON (Left Back).—Splendid back. Has a powerful, sure kick, and keeps the ball low. Tackles well, but should not dribble.
- 4 E. RHODES (Centre Half).—Indefatigable half. Good tackler, using forceful tactics. Has improved his left foot kick. Great improvement upon last season.
- 4 A. RHODES (Left Half).—Magnificent half. Holds his man well and draws an opponent before passing. Excellent header. Has a perfect understanding with his forwards.
- 4 M. F. LICHAUCO (Right Outside).—Speedy, "eel-like," untiring. Very quick on the ball. New to the position, he used to hang on to the ball; now, centres well and at the right moment. Has played some excellent games. Keen, but should keep well forward.
- 3 J. E. HAYGARTH (Right Inside).—The terror of the "foe." Very fast, with plenty of dash. Feeds his outside better than formerly. Highest goalscorer. Has lost some of his sting since Christmas.
- J. C. BOWDEN (Right Inside).—Rather slow; wants go, and should make for goal without loss of time. Passes admirably, and uses his head well. Does not hesitate to shoot when he sees an opening.

- 2 J. C. CARMICHAEL (Centre forward).—Made a fine leader of the forward line before Christmas. Kept his wing-men going. Energetic, and used his weight. Excellent and very powerful shot. Did his duty well as secretary.
- 5 J. HARRIS (Centre forward).—A trifle slow, but tries hard. Moderately good shot with his right foot, but weak with his left. Has shown marked improvement while on the team, and played some good games towards the end of the season.
- 4 W. SOUTHERN (Left inside).—A good inside-man, but rather timid. Formed a good wing with Bullough. His shots are exceedingly well placed. Passes well, but sometimes overfeeds his outside. Improving steadily.
- 4 T. H. S. BULLOUGH (Left outside).—Fine forward. Fairly fast, with complete control over the ball. Has a strong kick, and centres remarkably well. Uses his head to advantage. His excellent corner-kicks have resulted in many goals for School.

A. H. FRANKENBERG.

- 3 A. H. FRANKENBERG (Right Half).—Our keen and cheerful secretary. Exceedingly quick; excellent judgment in intercepting and giving passes. Never failed to do his best and to do well.

AN IMPORTANT NEW SERIES

GREAT NATIONS ANCIENT GREECE

A Sketch of its Art, Literature, and Philosophy viewed in connection with its external history from Earlier Times to the age of Alexander the Great

By H. B. COTTERILL, M.A. (Translator of "The Odyssey")

With Five Illustrations in Four Colours, and nearly 150 Illustrations, mostly Half-tone, printed on Dull Art Paper.

Size. 8½×5½ in., 528 pages letterpress, with Full Index, bound in cloth extra, gilt top, price 7/6 net.

This handsome volume has been prepared with all the care necessary for serious study, but it is also addressed to the general reader, and is, therefore, attractive in matter and get up.

It is safe to say that no other book of its kind with so great a wealth of Illustrations has been published at the price. The author has endeavoured, as it were, to revive the real life of the Greeks, and show how they still deeply influence the present by their deeds and their thoughts. Political and Military events have received their proper place and proportions in the structural framework, but more attention has been given to great achievements in art, literature, science, and other civilising influences.

The following additional Volumes in this important New Series have been arranged for and others will be added—

Republican Rome. By H. L. Havell, B.A.

France. By Prof. W. H. Hudson

Germany. By T. W. Rolleston

Ireland. By Eleanor Hull and Prof. Stanley Lane Poole

Scotland. By R. L. Mackie, M.A.

Medieval Italy. By H. B. Cotterill, M.A.

Ancient India. By E. B. Havell, M.A.

Prospectus of above important Publications, Complete Classified List, and List of Books Beautiful will be sent post free upon application.
