Human Nature and Clothes.

Real Reasons why Young Gentlemen should buy their Clothes here,

It is human nature for every young man to wish to look his best.

Human nature teaches us that because something is cheap it is not necessarily good; that because it is expensive it is not necessarily correct.

Human nature knows that our young men require different styles, different colourings, from those of their elders—and that their clothes must possess youthful spirit and gracefulness that fit the figure at every bend and turn.

We have specialized to a great extent to meet the requirements of these younger men, and whether it be

Dr. W. A. HEARD.

Manchester College of Music, who has played in public with Dr. Brodsky. We take this opportunity of expressing our thanks to him for the trouble he has taken with the rehearsals.

Our best congratulations to Col. Isherwood on being made a C.B., and to Lieut.-Col. Bailey on being gazetted Colonel.

Our request for photos of O.M.'s who have lost their lives in the War has produced only one reply up to the present. We hope more are forthcoming. It is intended to publish them in groups, six or eight at a time. The photos, of course, will be returned when done with.

A proposal is on foot in the School to enrol volunteer workers to assist the Post Office in sorting, collecting and delivering letters and parcels during the Christmas rush. The scouts have already offered to devote their pay—6d. an hour—to the Motor Ambulance Fund.

We publish, at the end of this number, the additional list of O.M.A. members, since the last issue.

Contributions, other than those relating to the O.M.A., will be received by Mr. C. L. Barnes, at the School.

The following are selections from letters received :—

DEAR MR. PATON,

10/11/15.

It is a long time since I wrote to you—at any rate, it seems so, for so much has happened that is new to me in that time. We have been in action once in the open, and by some miracle stayed there six days without getting wiped out; in fact, we had very few casualties, though two out of our four officers have gone home wounded. We are now in action again after three or four days of what was supposed to be rest, I think, but what was really nothing but marching, finding a billet, packing up and marching again. Not but what even that was a rest after living under actual or anticipated shell fire for several days. I am writing this up under the tiles in a much-damaged hospice—once apparently a hospital but now full of the most extraordinary collection of rubbish, old clothes, and what-not. It is nearly 8 a.m., but the mist is so thick that observation is quite impossible, so that I can leave my hole in the tiles with a clear conscience.

I had a sad letter from W. P. Hawkins a day or two ago. He, who was so confident of getting through unhurt, has been badly smashed up. His thigh was broken high up, and while he lay wounded another piece of shrapnel struck him on the head. Now he is lying, practically motionless, though allowed to write, in the Duchess of Westminster's hospital at La Touquet, worrying over the problem why all is hatred and eagerness to hurt only a few miles away, while where he is all is love and anxiety to heal. I have written to him and shall try to go to see him if I can, but I fear it will not be possible.

By this time, of course, the boys in what were my two forms will have been scattered by promotions, so that I can no longer write to them; and they don't really lose much, because one has to be so careful not to say anything that would be of much interest. I don't cease to think of and remember them for all that.

Yours sincerely,

C. E. FRY.

DEAR Ulula,

7/11/15.

The other day I received from home the October issue of Ulula and with it an invitation to the Annual Re-union of the O.M.A.

It occurred to me that probably you would like to have an occasional letter from an O.M. out here. We left England soon after the outbreak of war for Egypt, where we had eight months on garrison duty, four of which were spent at Alexandria and four at Cairo. Early in May we were drafted out here at the shortest notice, as supports to the 29th Division, who had so brilliantly effected a landing on the Peninsula, but had the greatest difficulty in holding on. We relieved the pressure to a great extent. We have now been on the Peninsula just over six months, and have taken part in several advances. We have, unfortunately, had tremendous losses, and of my own Battalion, the 6th Manchesters, there are very few left of those who originally landed early in May. I am sorry to say many O.M.'s have "gone west." The majority of the O.M.'s in the Sixth were in A Company, and in Egypt, out of our mess of sixteen, with only one exception, all were O.M.'s. It is sad to think that of these there are only about six of us left, and I am the only one still on the Peninsula, in spite of Turkish shells and bullets.

Soon after we landed here, I was appointed on the Brigade Headquarters Staff, which has probably accounted for me still being alive and kicking.

We are faced with rather a big task here, much greater than people at home seem to realize. I rather fancy it will be some time before we are through the Narrows. At present we are simply held up, and are likely to be so right through the winter. During the rough weather, which we are told prevails here from the end of December till about the middle of March, we shall probably hold fast, and I don't think any advance of note will be made.

The operations, on our side of the Peninsula, are now confined to mining and counter-mining, with occasional attacks and counter-attacks. After a mine is blown up, a huge crater is formed, and we frequently make use of these craters by fortifying them with machine-guns until they are practically like miniature forts, and prove quite a thorn in the side of the Turks.

I have heard it said that if we could have gained so brilliant a footing on this Peninsula, in the teeth of such tremendous odds, we should also have been able to overcome the obstacles that are now holding us up, but—it is not for me to express my humble opinion of the state of affairs out here, even were the Censor to permit me.

The prospect of having to face a winter campaign out here is certainly far from cheering, particularly to one who has already “stuck it” for more than six months, besides which we won’t have the advantage here of being able to go into “billets” in some neighbouring village during the rough weather, as the troops in France do. The whole of the country here is practically one great dreary waste, covered by scrub.

I don’t think the entry of Bulgaria into the war, against us, will very much affect the position out here in the Dardanelles, except in so far that troops which would otherwise have probably been sent out to us as reinforcements, will most likely be now sent to Salonika en route to assist Serbia against the combined German-Austro-Bulgarian attack. Bulgaria’s entry will probably also tend to prolong the end of the war, although there is absolutely no question as to what that end will ultimately be.

Before I close I should like to express my very deep sympathy and condolence with you on the loss the School has sustained by the death of Mr. Corbold, a notice of whom I saw in Ulula. I had the great good fortune to be under him for two years whilst at the School, and quite endorse the various appreciations appearing under the obituary notice in the October issue.

I hope to let you have a further account of affairs, etc., out here.

S. N. HYMAN.

From Capt. J. F. H. Templar: “Just a line to let you know that the 20th Battalion Royal Fusiliers is now in France and going strong. We have been in the trenches twice already, and had a very quiet initiation—a bit of sniping, a few whizz-bangs and trench mortars, but nothing to get cold feet about. You will be glad to hear that all the many Old Mancunians in the Battalion are doing well, and so far there are no casualties to report amongst them. One meets O.M.'s everywhere here, and great are the rejoicings when such a meeting takes place, especially among the fellows who have been out here some time and are glad to get news from home. As you know, D. S. Hodgson-Jones is one of my platoon commanders, and the other night his brother, Russell, who is M.O. to a company of sappers, dropped in to dinner. We were awfully surprised and delighted, and had a great "jaw" about the School and the camps we had done together. Those camps did more for us than almost anything at School. The training in living in the open, learning how to cook decently, and to sleep comfortably—all these things are invaluable nowadays. It also provided a bond of sympathy even stronger than that of being in the same form or the same team. I was talking to "Baboon" Holden, who, with A. L. Cooper, is a corporal in C Co., and we agreed that having trekked through Bavaria broke one in to being billeted in barns. Good luck to the Footer and 'Crosse teams this winter, and indeed to all the activities of the School.

The following is a copy of a letter from Sergeant-Major J. Brophy:

IN THE FIELD,

DEAR MR. HOLDEN,

This is the fourth time I have made the attempt to write to offer to yourself and Mrs. Holden my deepest sympathy, but somehow I could not frame the words. You see I knew the Scoutmaster so well—few better; and his death came so swiftly, so unexpectedly, that for days I could not realise that he had gone. We had been together on an odd risky affair, and, as God saw fit to spare us, I thought it impossible death should reach him in the comparative security of a trench.

He filled completely my ideal of a Christian gentleman, who, having mapped out a plan of duty, pursued it unswervingly, helping to make smooth the way for those who were fortunate enough to be in his command, and I know his men, both scouts and company, would cheerfully have stuck to him till the last cartridge had gone.

I was privileged to advise him often on matters of routine, and often my advice was unpalatable, but such was the beauty of his character that these differences never made the slightest change in our friendship—a friendship whose value to me he never realised—that I thank God existed between us.

Many are the little unobtrusive kindnesses he showered on us, and my first introduction to Cairo I owed to him the day we did the Mosques.

It is so hard for me to express my thoughts—the rifle comes handier than the pencil; but often I've prayed that he is with God. I am a R.C., as you know, sir, and 'tis our custom to offer such, but I always believe that white-souled men like he are little in need of prayer.

That God may comfort yourself, sir, Mrs. Holden, and his sisters, is the prayer of

Your grateful servant,

JAMES BROPHY.

Capt. Victor O. Robinson, 1/6th Sherwoods, has been awarded a Military Cross for conspicuous gallantry at the Hohenzollern Redoubt, between October 13th and 15th, when his company was sent forward to support another battalion and placed in the front line trench. He was continuously on duty without rest. His name has twice previously been brought to notice for gallantry. After leaving School he studied spinning and weaving at the School of Technology, but went out to the front as 2nd Lieutenant in February. He received his captaincy on the field.

Second Lieutenant H. Jennison, 14th W. Yorks. Regiment, has been wounded in the Dardanelles, and is in hospital at Malta. He had only been out three weeks.

Grand Entertainment in aid of H.O.L.C.

On Friday, December 3rd, a concert took place at the School the like of which has not been given within memory. For days beforehand the posters and advertisements, with their arresting capitals and cunning phraseology, had roused expectation to the highest pitch, and the publication of the programme confirmed the anticipation of good things in store. Even before the opening of the doors a considerable crowd had gathered, and by the commencement of the performance, at 7-30 p.m., the seating accommodation was completely overtaxed. After the National Anthem, the Orchestra, under the able leadership of J. B. Horn, gave a most effective rendering of three "Henry VIII" dances by Edward German. The concert party then introduced themselves, and sang their opening chorus. Mr. Fred Ashby (O.M.), the Minnehaha tenor, had very kindly consented to assist at the performance, and roused such applause with "I'll sing thee songs of Araby" as could only be satisfied by his encore, "An old-fashioned house." After a concerted item by the party ("We've come to sing"), E. Y. Scarlett discoursed to good purpose on the difficulties and humour of "Modern Languages," and was followed by J. E. Haygarth (baritone), who sang "Ship-mates of mine." Next came some recitations from T. R. Chatfield, who passed most successfully through the tongue-twisting intricacies of the "Duel between Knott and Shott." The final item of the first part of the programme ("Round the world for 30/-") was perhaps the most successful one of the evening, Scarlett as the aeronautical conductor of the tour, and Haygarth and Chatfield as two "neuclear" passengers, being particularly good. The satirical references and comments provoked uproarious merriment and were received in perfect good humour even by the unfortunate victims. During the interval Scarlett announced that a profit of at least £14 was expected to be handed over to the funds of H.O.L.C.

The second half opened with another delightful orchestral selection (Elgar's "Salut d'Amour"), followed by a concerted item in which the party explained in lugubrious tones the disastrous effects on "Six little boys from school" of such topical incidents as the collapse of the Gym roof, the appeals of Lord Kitchener, and the eating of the School dinner, etc., etc. A heated altercation ensued between Scarlett and E. Coles, the net result of which was that, however, abstemious, affectionate and handsome members of the canine species might be, "Mr. Coles is no dog." Chatfield then recited the famous "Crispin Crispian" speech from Henry V, and gave as encore "A dream of chivalry," with its unexpected conclusion. The audience then enjoyed to the full another of Scarlett's inimitable efforts—this time an impersonation of a "Country Curate" as if to the manner born. The anxiety as to the meaning of Prestidigiteur was then amply satisfied by the wonders Coles wrought with a hat lent by a member of the audience and with other simple-seeming articles. "The Irish Fantasy," sung by J. O. Almond, gave occasion for an effective genre-study on a dim-lit stage, while the singing earned a well-merited encore. We then had the pleasure of more songs from Haygarth, "Drake goes west," and two encores, "Son of mine" and "Little grey home in the west," the second verse of which was repeated, the audience joining in. Scarlett again scored heavily, some of the "cures" of "Twigg's Family Doctor" being peculiarly appropriate under the present weather conditions. Finally the woes of the poor Ventriloquist (J. B. Johnson, Coles supplying the "voice") "brought down the house." The entertainment concluded with the singing of the "Marseillaise" and "God save the King."

The thanks of the audience are due not only to Mr. Ashby and the members of the concert party, to A. H. Warr, who officiated at the piano, and to the orchestra, but also to that nameless but necessary band who assisted behind the scenes and contributed so largely to the success of the "prodigious" change of scene. It is to be hoped that this concert will be the first of a successful and annual series.

A Battle Song.

Awake, ye bards, the glorious sun is lifting
His golden head o'er yonder eastern hills,
And as he sends the mists and dews a-drifting
He mounts t'wards heav'n in ever brightening rills.
Arise, then, bards, and take your harps up with you
And rouse your comrades to the coming fight,
Sing praises to the sun who comes to give you
His cheery warmth, his goodness, and his light.

Awake, ye chiefs, prepare yourselves for battle,
Gird on your swords about your sturdy loins,
And when you hear the chariot's distant rattle
Remember "honour" as the battle joins;
And when the fearful sword-on-sword is clashing
Remember there's the battle to be won,
And as the sing-song spear-on-shield goes dashing
Fight on until the setting of the sun.

Play on, ye bards, and with your dirges dreary
Prepare your comrades for that awful hour,
When mid'st the dead, the dying, and the weary,
They die, and pass to freedom's happy bower.
Mourn for the dead, those glorious men who bravely
Gave up their lives to save their chief from shame,
So praise your king—sat on his throne so gravely—
For those who gave him glory, won him fame.

W. S.

Hope.

Comrade, although the mist lies thick around,
Behind us black,—before, no hope of light,
Let us hard-working at our task be found,
When morning breaks and ends Earth's gloomy night

Comrade, fear not the vastness of the sea.
All troubles end, and all life's clouds must break.
There is a higher power than ours, and He
Who seems to sleep aboard the ship, will wake.

Comrade, behold the east is faintly glowing ;
Behind the clouds there gleams a crimson ray.
And dost not feel a fresh wind lightly blowing,
Reviving Hope, and ushering in the day?

Literary Society.

On Monday, November 8th, W. L. Brewerton in the Chair, the Meeting was devoted to the reading of Galsworthy's "Strife." This proved so interesting that the Society refused to adjourn until the end of the play was reached at 5-20 p.m. The principal rôles were taken by Betley, Brewerton, Haygarth, Kenyon, Stock, Tenen and Wilson.

On Monday, November 22nd, with Mr. Warman in the chair, a select company proceeded to the consideration of original and favourite sonnets. Three original sonnets by members who desired to remain anonymous were read. Betley then read Wight-Duff's rendering of a poem of Catullus. Mounsey and Wilson chose Wordsworth's sonnets "On Westminster Bridge" and "Mutability." Bradley selected Keats's "Bright Star, would I were steadfast as thou art!" Finally the President read Blanco White's famous sonnet, "Night and Death," and others by Dante Gabriel Rossetti and Elizabeth Barrett Browning.

Debating Society.

On Wednesday, November 17th, Norcross in the Chair, Horn moved that "Mr. Asquith's conduct of the war has been the perfection of statesmanship." He said that the Premier's long period of office was of itself a sign of his capability. He had remained firm amid the resignations of ministers during the last year or two, and at the present moment we ought to give him all the support we could. Betley, in opposing, read to us some articles written by various worthy friends of his. He criticized Mr. Asquith very severely, imputing to his negligence the shortage of ammunition, the want of a settled course in the Balkan crisis, and gross mismanagement in all affairs since the commencement of the war. Norcross accused the last speaker of advocating the side of unrighteousness, and remarked that there was no mention of Mr. Asquith in the articles which he had read. Summerfield asserted that Mr. Asquith had fulfilled his duties, and even if we could change the leadership in the midst of the war, whom could we substitute? Porter made some violent Ciceronian accusations against the Premier. Bradley and Wilson discussed the propriety of changing horses in mid-stream. The motion was carried by 9 votes to 5.

On November 24th, Light in the chair, after delivering a report on the Society's Library, Atkinson proposed the motion that "Classical education is useless and harmful." While making some very dogmatic assertions he failed to produce any convincing reasons in support of them. In the absence of Norcross, Bradley opposed, quoting sonnets by Keats and Andrew Lang, but reserving his arguments, if he had any, to the summing up. The subsequent debate, carried on by Wormald, Powell, Diamond and Stock gave evidence of wide divergence of views. The sentiments of the house proved to be equally divided, 4 to 4, and the Chairman gave a casting vote against the motion.

T. D. S.

Philosophical Society.

On November 9th, with Mr. Barnes in the Chair, E. N. Allott gave a short talk on "Some interesting chemical actions." Among other examples, he gave an account of his researches on the action of the halide salts of mercury on aluminium. Mr. Barnes added a few remarks on chemical action in general, and a short discussion followed.

On November 16th, A. Fuchs lectured to us on "The passage of Electricity through gases and X-rays" The lecture was well illustrated by lantern slides and apparatus kindly lent by Prof. Gee (O.M.), of the School of Technology.

"A journey through Japan" was the subject of our next lecture, which was held, by the kindness of Mr. Green, in his room on November 23rd. The address was well illustrated by a collection of interesting and original slides.

A cinematograph, for the use of which we have to thank F. Potts (Sc.Tr.), was the chief attraction on November 30th, when H. Mastin gave us a comprehensive account of the growing, manufacture and refining of Sugar, with the help of a number of slides, a cinematograph film, and several specimens. The lecture was much appreciated.

The last meeting of the term was held on Tuesday, December 7th, when W. B. Mumford gave us a short but interesting paper on the "Chemistry of Food." This was followed by a short discussion, the effect of alcohol being especially considered.

This has been one of the most successful terms in the life of the Society, no fewer than ten well-attended meetings being held. It is hoped that all interested in Science and Philosophy will do their best to keep this up next term. The Secretary will be glad to receive offers of papers for any Tuesday after March 14th next.

C. S.

Photographic Society.

During the term seven meetings have been held. The first, the annual meeting, was held on Wednesday, September 15th, when Mr. Mayo, Mr. Parrott, and E. M. Allott, were re-elected Vice-President, Treasurer, and Librarian respectively, and a new Secretary, R. Thomas, was elected in place of Mr. J. R. Parsons, who had gone to live in Egypt.

On Wednesday, September 22nd, Mr. Mayo in the chair, Mr. Parrott gave a talk on enlarging photographs, and at the same time exhibited the Society's enlarging lantern, explaining the uses of its parts.

On Wednesday, October 13th, Mr. Mayo gave a demonstration in the dark room on enlarging.

On October 27th, Mr. Green kindly permitted us to use his lantern, and a number of lantern slides made by members of the Society were exhibited.

On November 10th Mr. Mayo gave a demonstration before a well-attended meeting, on the making of lantern slides.

On November 24th, Mr. Parrott gave a demonstration on the mounting of prints, a subject important to all photographers, and yet little practised by amateurs.

The last meeting, on December 8th, was devoted to a demonstration on the development of the negative.

Philatelic Society.

On November 15th, 22nd and 29th, meetings were held in Mr. Rubenstein's room, mainly for the exchange of stamps, and there was a fairly good attendance. Mr. Horsley has kindly consented to become President of the Society. There is a library of catalogues and books on Philately, which are lent out to members of the Society. In addition to this, there is a very fine stamp collection. Boys who are interested in stamps are cordially invited to become members of the Society. The subscription is sixpence half-yearly.

A. M.

Music Study Circle.

During this term the Music Study Circle has held the first half of a most privileged session, which will be continued after Christmas. All our visitors have been distinguished members of musical circles.

Our first meeting was held on October 15th, when a good company assembled in the Drawing Hall to hear Mr. Eller give an interesting lecture on Chopin and Mr. E. Isaacs (O.M.) play illustrations of Chopin's music. Perhaps the greatest piece of the evening was the Military Polonaise, but all the selections were most attractive and executed as only a musician of Mr. Isaac's power could execute them. Both lecturer and pianist were warmly received by an enthusiastic audience.

On November 5th, Miss Daisy Bucknall, L.R.A.M., paid us a visit and lectured on MacDowell, the great American composer. Miss Bucknall gave some account of the composer's career, and then illustrated it by selections from his music. As the programme consisted almost entirely of shorter pieces, the illustrations were widely chosen, and left a very favourable impression of a composer who has not yet received the attention he so well deserves. The vocal items were delightfully sung by Miss Mason, gold medallist of the Royal College of Music.

On November 19th Mr. Broadhurst brought Mr. R. J. Forbes to give an interesting programme illustrating the different forms of dance music. As might be expected, the music was, for the most part, of a lively character and greatly enjoyed by the audience. Throughout the whole programme Mr. Forbes played with his usual power and had a very enthusiastic reception. The great piece of the evening was Rachmaninoff's Polka in A flat, which earned a well-deserved encore. The last item was Chopin's Military Polonaise, which we were only too glad to hear again executed with all the brilliancy of a great pianist.

The last meeting was held on December 3rd, when Mr. J. Leese, Mus.Bac., lectured on Elizabethan music. He took as his subject Queen Elizabeth's Virginal Book and exhibited two facsimile manuscripts of pages from that work, which consisted of some thousand pages. Mr. Leese did full justice to his subject and played examples of the work of John Bull, Farnaby, Byrd, and others. The music of that day, while it is a great contrast to the grand productions of later composers, has a charm of its own in its simplicity, and no doubt was even more acceptable when played on the virginals than on a grand piano.

Some very good meetings are in store for the society next term. It will be a matter of great interest to many to know that towards the end of the session Mr. and Mrs. Nicholson have promised to pay us another visit.

J. B. H.

Chess.

President, Mr. Willis; Vice-Presidents, Mr. Chevalier, Mr. Rubenstein, and W. H. Mounsey (C.VI); Secretary, W. Steggall (IV.a); Treasurer, A. E. Lévy (Sc.Tr.).

The Secretary sends an appeal for more support to the Club. We regret that only an abstract can be given, from considerations of space.

The School has, for thirty-two years at the very least, taken a very lively and enthusiastic interest in Chess. Why should we give it up now? For the last three years, I am sorry to say, the game has been slowly but surely losing its high place in this School. Our team this year is not nearly so good as it has been in previous years, while four years ago our first team was very nearly the best in the whole League, and we carried off several shields and trophies. But where are they now? There are a great many boys who have had a fairly keen interest in chess, but have not joined the club. Why not? It cannot be from financial reasons, because the subscription is only sixpence per term. We hope soon to see an improvement in the membership and also in the standard of play.

The Boys v. Masters match this term resulted in a win for the latter, and we have so far lost all our matches in the B League. This shows how very much we have fallen off of late. We may very soon recover the lost ground, but it can only be accomplished by the juniors joining the Club now, so that in due time they may make first-class players for the first team. There are about twenty in the club at present; there ought to be at least fifty, judging from the boys who can play.

M. G. S. v. LIVERPOOL INSTITUTE.

Away, on Saturday, October 16th. School lost the toss, but our opponents elected to kick up a slight incline against the wind. This probably was the cause of their defeat by seven goals to one. They were in no wise inferior to us in midfield play, the difference being in front of goal. School took all their chances of scoring, and Liverpool, with one exception, missed all theirs. Praise, however, must be given to the School defence, Newton and Harrison (J. F.) among the halves playing a fine game, though they had very heavy forwards to deal with. The School attack, too, combined well, Flowers at right outside being particularly noticeable for speed and accuracy. The goal-scorers were Harrison (4), Marquis, Dennett, and Flowers (one each).

School, 7; Liverpool, 1.

Team: Thornley; Orr (A. J. B.), Orr (K.); Harrison (J. F.), Newton, Royse; Flowers, Dennett, Marquis, Harrison, Evans.

M. G. S. v. TALBOT HOUSE.

At the Cliff, Saturday October 23rd. School again showed their skill in seizing almost every opportunity of scoring, no fewer than eight goals being obtained against a fast and heavy eleven. Goals in the latter half of the game were coming so quickly that the School inside forwards began to shoot wildly, and often missed scoring from six yards' range. The two brothers Orr played excellently in the full-back positions, and Thornley in goal saved and handled neatly. The goal-kicks, however, might be improved, as the ball, even on a dry afternoon, rarely reaches the half-way line. The best forward on the play was easily Marquis, who combined clever dribbling with neat passing. The forwards were rather apt to get offside, and when a throw-in is being taken they should not keep rigidly far up the field, but should assist the halves as much as possible. Goals came from Marquis (2), Harrison (2), Dennett (3), and Flowers. Score:

School, 8; Talbot House, 1.

Team: Thornley; Orr (A. J. B.), Orr (K.); Harrison (J. F.), Newton, Royse; Flowers, Dennett, Marquis, Harrison, Evans.

M. G. S. v. BOLTON SCHOOL.

On October 27th, at Bolton. It was evident from the start that School were by far the better side. Not only were the Bolton forwards small and light in comparison with our defence, but their halves and backs, too, were inferior in weight and speed (with the single exception of the Bolton left back) to our forwards. School were soon hovering round the Bolton goal mouth, and corner after corner was obtained on both wings. School forwards had plenty of opportunities of scoring, but the inside men, particularly, shot wide time after time. The score was opened for School by Harrison from a well-judged pass by Evans. This success was soon followed by a second, Newton scoring a good goal from 30 yards' range. Half-time arrived with School leading by three to nil, Marquis having just managed to deflect the ball into the net off a corner. In the second half School, for the most part, did nothing but kick goal-kicks. Marquis (2) and Dennett, however, added further goals. Towards the end the Bolton forwards broke away and scored, the School full-backs and goal-keeper being presumably frozen through inaction. Final score :

School 6 ; Bolton, 1.

M. G. S. v. BURY GRAMMAR SCHOOL.

At the Cliff, on Saturday, November 6th. School played the hardest and most exciting game of the season so far, and were unlucky to lose by one goal to two. All through, the play was hot and fast, and Bury, having lost at the Cliff the year before, were intent on wiping out the defeat. The ground was very slippery, and greatly assisted School, who were lighter in weight than their opponents. For the first 20 minutes School were literally bombarding the Bury goal, and were greatly disappointed at seeing none of their efforts meeting with success. The Bury defence played rather roughly at times, and were warned once or twice by Mr. Green, who acted as referee. The free kicks outside the area came to nothing. Bury had scored just after half-time by a sudden rush down the field, which had taken the defence by surprise. School, however, continued to play well, and Flowers, though badly kicked, ran along the touchline, and centred for Marquis to score a brilliant goal. There was now a minute to time, and School were on tenterhooks lest Bury should snatch a victory from the position. The Bury left outside got the ball, and passed to the inside left ; the latter merely lunged at the ball, which, by ill-luck, skidded out of Thornley's reach into the net, just as the whistle went for time. All our eleven had played well, and no blame is attached to the goalkeeper for failing to save such a difficult shot.

School, 1 ; Bury, 2.

Team : Thornley ; Orr (A. J. B.), Royse ; Harrison (J. F.), Newton, Rippon ; Flowers, Dennett, Marquis, Harrison, Evans.

M. G. S. v. MACCLESFIELD GRAMMAR SCHOOL.

At Macclesfield, on Saturday, November 13th. School turned out with ten men only, the left-half, Rippon, being indisposed. In spite of the rainfall, the ground was in good condition, and thus the advantage School gained in weight was counterbalanced by the speed and trickiness of their opponents. The Macclesfield forwards were soon working well, and following a miss-kick on the part of School's right back, the Macclesfield centre scored. School then resumed with four forwards, and an individual effort by Flowers brought the ball into the Macclesfield goal-mouth. The ball went out to Evans on the left, who promptly centred for Flowers to score. School continued to press against a strong wind, but the forwards did not combine well, and owing to the alteration of positions, the halves played a rather ragged game. Half-time score, 1—1. The game continued strongly in School's favour, and shortly we took the lead through Flowers, who gave the Macclesfield goalkeeper no chance of saving his shot from six yards' distance. Macclesfield, however, were not to be disheartened, and their forwards gave School's full-backs an anxious time, one of them shooting wide with the goal at his mercy. Play was again transferred to the opponents' half, and School were pressing vigorously when the whistle suddenly sounded. An evident though unintentional foul on the Macclesfield goal-keeper was disregarded by the referee, who penalised him for carrying the ball. From the kick Dennett scored. This was an unfortunate and costly mistake for Macclesfield, but they soon carried the play into School's half, and for the last ten minutes were easily the better side. All through the game the Macclesfield halves and forwards had shown better combination than School; but on the whole we deserved to win, as we took advantage of every opportunity that offered. Final score :

School, 3; Macclesfield, 1.

Team: Thornley; Royse, Orr (A. J. B.); Harrison (J. F.), Dennett, Newton; Flowers, Marquis, Harrison, Evans.

M. G. S. v. BUXTON COLLEGE.

At Buxton, on Saturday, December 4th. School experienced by far the severest weather of the season at Buxton. The rain poured down during the whole of the game, and every single man on the field, including the referee, got wet to the skin. However, in spite of these inclement conditions, an excellent game was witnessed by the spectators who turned up to encourage the home team. School lost the toss, but Buxton elected to kick up a slight incline against the wind and the rain. The first goal for School came from Marquis. Buxton rallied, and playing good football carried the ball on to the School goal-line, and while a scrimmage was ensuing there, the referee's whistle sounded for a goal. Shortly after, Buxton met with another success, a goal similar to their first. Just before half-time Dennett made the score 2—2. In the second half School played a splendid uphill battle, and the defence ably supported the combined efforts of the forwards. At last one of these was rewarded, Marquis scoring a second time. Harrison added the last goal for School. Score :—

School, 4 ; Buxton, 2.

Team : Thornley ; Royse, Orr (A. J. B.) ; Harrison (J. F.), Newton, Rippon ; Flowers, Dennett, Marquis, Harrison, Evans (D. L.). J. H.

Lacrosse.

M. G. S. v. HULME GRAMMAR SCHOOL.

On Saturday, November 13th, at Alexandra Park. This game was again remarkable for the poor finishing of the School attack, who will persist in crowding the enemies' goal-mouth, whilst Wheatley-Jones is apparently the only member with any idea of a hard shot. These two facts alone are almost wholly responsible for the adverse score, for we certainly had as much of the game as our opponents, who, however, took better advantage of their chances. The defence again played a sterling game, Betley especially distinguishing himself in what was undoubtedly one of the fastest games of the season. Result :

M. G. S., 7 ; Hulme Grammar School, 13.

Team : Edwards (N. L.) ; Robinson (W. G. T. K.) ; Kirkland ; Yorke-Jones ; Betley, Tomlinson ; Kenyon ; Mawson, Norris ; Duthie ; Higson ; Wheatley-Jones.

M. G. S. v. HEATON MERSEY.

On Saturday, November 20th, at Heaton Mersey. This game was played on a narrow ground, and consequently our attack, who have been accustomed to plenty of elbow-room, were somewhat handicapped. The turf being in a treacherous condition, owing to frost and ice, the passing and handling did not reach a very high standard, whilst some members were badly knocked about. For the first half the two sides were very evenly matched, the goals being scored practically alternately. There was a great improvement in our attack, who at last showed some elementary knowledge of the game of lacrosse. When the whistle sounded for the second half, however, a remarkable change came over the game. Our attack, possibly thinking they had done enough, seemed quite incapable of any combined efforts, and our opponents assuming the mastery, we were kept practically the whole time on the defensive. Had our defence not risen to the occasion, the score against us would have been much worse. Robinson and Tomlinson, in particular, played a good game. Result :

M. G. S., 7; Heaton Mersey, 13.

Team: Edwards (N. L.); Robinson (W. G. T. K.); Robertson; Kirkland; Tomlinson, Yorke-Jones; Kenyon (J.); Norris, Mawson; Duthie, Higson, Wheatley-Jones.

M. G. S. v. WAREHOUSEMEN AND CLERKS.

On Saturday, December 4th, at Holmes Chapel. We took a somewhat depleted team for this match, Betley and Wheatley-Jones being absentees, and as there was a constant downpour of rain from the first face to the final whistle, one would have expected a game less keen than usual. Nevertheless, both sides played with plenty of energy, and a hard struggle resulted. Our attack played better than usual, especially in the first half, opening out well and keeping on the move, although at times the passing was rather erratic. Norris's attack play on the right wing was a feature of the second half, whilst Yorke-Jones on occasions rendered valuable aid to the attack. Result :

M. G. S., 10; Warehousemen and Clerks, 6.

Team: Edwards (N. L.); Robinson (W. G. T. K.); Robertson; Kirkland; Tomlinson, Yorke-Jones; Kenyon; Norris, Mawson; Duthie; Field; Higson.

Harriers.

September 11th.—The opening run of the season was from the Cliff. There was a large proportion of new juniors, and a pack run over the Steeplechase Course took place at a fairly easy pace. A variation through Drinkwater Park was introduced near the end.

September 18th.—The run was from South Manchester School. The hares allowed themselves to be caught by F. L. Jones and C. Green. To elude the rest of the hounds, the leaders crossed the River Mersey, which there averaged four to five feet in depth. The rest of the pack, preferring dryness to aquatic exercises, kept to the left bank, which the hares regained by Northenden Bridge. The run concluded with an exciting race home down Palatine Road. The hares were Shaw, Mounsey, H. W. Smith, and Standing.

September 25th.—The weather for this run was excellent. The trail was lost early on, and four separate courses were chosen by as many packs. The fast pack took the Adelphi run, through Kersal Clough and along the Pendleton side of the Irwell. The hares were Shaw, C. Green, and F. W. Walton.

October 2nd.—Only a moderate number turned up for the run from Sharston, so we had to content ourselves with a pack run over the excellent country in the vicinity. We keenly appreciated the excellent tea afterwards provided by Mr. Paton.

October 9th.—This run was from Hilton Hall, Prestwich. Mr. Hartley took charge, and helped to lay a very interesting trail over almost entirely new ground. There was a good turn-out. The hares were Mr. Hartley, W. J. Davies (O.M.), and Mounsey.

October 16th.—Our first fixture with the Hugh Oldham H.C. was run off from South Manchester School. The H.O. fast pack travelled at a great speed, as usual, and, a mile from home, caught up the hares, as did F. L. Jones and Standing. The run was a slight variation on the usual South Manchester run, and coupled with perfect weather, was a great success. The M.G.S. hares were C. Green and Shaw. Mr. and Mrs. Fuller afterwards kindly entertained the Club to tea.

October 23rd.—The run was from Sale High School. The weather was ideal, and the hares, Shaw, Mounsey, C. Green, and Pratt laid an excellent trail.

October 30th.—From the Cliff, the hares being Mr. Hartley, W. E. Gmelin and C. Green, who chose a very good course. They were twice sighted but not caught.

On Saturday, November 6th, we ran from Crumpsall with the H.O.L.C. harriers over the usual Crumpsall course. The run was hard but interesting, and School got a number of good places.

November 13th.—The run was from Sharston. No hares were sent out, but a most original pack run was enjoyed. Weather fine but cold.

November 20th.—From South Manchester School. The hares, Shaw, G. Lloyd and Standing, chose the usual South Manchester run, with some additions and alterations near the beginning and the end. Heap (O.M.) and Mounsey accidentally took a short cut, which brought them up with the hares. Owing to the thick frost the country was much worse than usual.

November 27th.—This run was from North Manchester School. There was an unpleasant amount of fog in the valleys, and it was intensely cold. Nevertheless, the run was much enjoyed by most of the pack. The hares were Mr. Hartley, R. Heap (O.M.) and W. E. Gmelin.

December 4th.—The run was from Fallowfield, with the H.O.L.C. Harriers, who took our regular South Manchester run, with about two miles put on at each end. Heavy rain fell the whole time, and the fording of the Mersey would have made little difference to the condition of the pack. There were no hares.

WHY THE NATIONS ARE AT WAR

THE CAUSES AND ISSUES OF THE GREAT CONFLICT

By CHARLES MORRIS & LAWRENCE H. DAWSON

Profusely Illustrated with Maps and Illustrations. Size $9\frac{1}{2} \times 6\frac{1}{2}$ in., 480 pages, 5s. net.

A Graphic Story of the Nations Involved, their History and Former Wars, their Rulers and Leaders, their Armies and Navies, their Resources, the Reasons for Conflict, and the Issues at Stake.

This book gives an extremely interesting review of the History of Europe since the French Revolution of 1789, especially in relation to the political developments which have led to the Great War.

THE SOLDIER'S WORD AND PHRASE BOOK.

In English, French, and German. Pocket size, oblong, $5 \times 3\frac{1}{2}$ in., 96 pages. Waterproof binding, 6d. net.; limp leather, 1/- net.

This valuable little book has been built up through actual experience with soldiers in the classroom by a small Committee of Modern Language experts. The pronunciation of every word is given and also a full alphabetical vocabulary.

A HISTORY OF THE ANCIENT WORLD.

By HUTTON WEBSTER, Professor in the University of Nebraska. Edited for use in English Schools by J. B. CHAPMAN, M.A. 230 Illustrations and 55 Maps. Demy 8vo, 704 pages, 6/- net.

The author has made a new and original arrangement of the material of Ancient History. The point of view is that of human life. The social, industrial, and commercial life of the Ancients is given with exceptional fullness. Their art, literature, and religion are not neglected, while political events and constitutional development receive all needed attention. The results of modern archaeological discoveries are fully treated. An attractive feature is the series of character-sketches of leading personages.
