Occasional and O.M.A. Notes.

Midsummer Holidays: Break-up, Friday, August 2nd.
Entrance Examination, Wednesday, September 18th.
School re-opens Thursday, September 19th.

It is with the greatest regret that we have to report the departure of Mr. Green into H.M.'s Forces. His loss will be felt very deeply by the School, and he carries our best wishes with him.

Our National Service midsummer work on the land will start early this year. There will be two end-of-term camps, at Charnage Hill Mere, Wiltshire, and near Peterboro', for three or four weeks. These camps will be mainly for matriculation boys and the work will consist in gathering flax.

Also arrangements have been made for thirty boys to go to Lydiat from August 24th to September 18th. There is also the possibility of work camps in Montgomeryshire and at Holbeach; but owing to shortage of fruit there will be no plum-picking camp at Charlton.

We have received another addition to the School collections. Lieut. J. S. Blake Reed, R.N.V.R., who has lately received an appointment at the Admiralty, has presented the School with a collection of the eggs of 10 species of sea birds from the Orkneys.

Mr. J. G. Haworth, who was in command of the Boys' Brigade Camp at Alderley Edge, wishes to express his gratitude to those who saved one of his boys from drowning in the mere. J. W. Mather, M.T.a., and C. E. Keeling, Sh.B., will be pleased to hear this.

We have also to thank H. Brown, M.T.a., for his good work in rescuing one of our own boys from difficulties in the same mere.

The School is greatly indebted to Mr. Finney for his kindness in constructing sectional models for the use of the Aero-Engine Class. This help will be of great advantage to those of our boys who are studying this subject.

As an example of real keenness for study, the following would be hard to beat. An O.M. writes that he has perused the whole of Virgil while in the trenches. Three others have read Gibbon while on active service. A few examples like these might be useful at home; or are benches less conducive to study than trenches?

We offer our best congratulations to Beeley, Hyman, and Levy on their Scholarships at Manchester University.

We notice that the Manchester Guardian seems to live in a state of total ignorance with regard to our National Service efforts. They have to go to their London office to obtain information, and even there all they can ascertain is that we have offered our services. Perhaps it will interest them to know that last year we earned over £1,200 at 4d. per hour, on the land. Also we had 380 boys on the land this Whitsuntide, and have never yet drawn on the Treasury for any portion of its 5s. per head grant.

Contributions, other than those relating to the O.M.A., will be received by Mr. A. S. Warman at the School.

N.B.—Will members please note that subscriptions should be paid to Mr. FRED ETCHELLS, Assistant Secretary, at the School, and that changes of address should be notified (also to Mr. ETCHELLS) without delay.

O.M. Chronicle.

At a meeting of the Executive Council held on June 19th, the following Resolution was passed:—

“That the members of the Executive of the O.M.A. desire to express their keen regret at the loss which the Association has sustained by the death in action of Lieut. W. B. Farrington, who since 1911 has been the Honorary General Secretary of their Association. They desire to put on record their high appreciation of the willingness with which he shouldered the work of a complex organisation, increased its membership and enlarged its field of activity; their appreciation also of the rare qualities which he brought to this work, his power to combine minute attention to detail with largeness of view, a rare equability and brotherliness of temper, a devotion which never flagged, a loyalty which never wavered or grew cool. These qualities, which were at all times and under all circumstances the inspiration of his conduct, have won for him a unique position in the regard and affection of all the old boys with whom he was brought in contact.”

The Executive know that the whole Association will join in this tribute, and will also extend to their late Honorary Secretary's relatives heart-felt and respectful sympathy in a loss so irreparable and so noble.

The many friends (particularly in the Literary Section) of Lieut. A. J. C. Freshwater, now serving with the H.Q. Staff of the 96th Infantry Brigade, will be pleased to learn that he is mentioned in Sir Douglas Haig's dispatch of April 7th.

Mr. Sydney Holcroft Henn has been made a Knight Commander of the Order of the British Empire. He is an O.M.

of the days of Walker, and holds the post of Director of Army Priority in the War Office.

The following O.M.'s have been appointed members of the Order:—

T. S. Bower—Organiser and Officer-in-Charge, Auxiliary Hospital, Frodsham.

S. F. Butcher—Bury War Pensions Committee.

In the Birthday List of Honours occurs the name of Mr. Percy Woodhouse, O.M., upon whom the King has conferred the honour of Knighthood. Mr. Woodhouse is a governor of the School and a member of the Manchester Education Committee. He is a Justice of the Peace for Manchester and for the County of Derby, and has done a great deal of work in connection with recruiting in Manchester ever since the beginning of the war.

The Directors of the L. & Y. R. have appointed Major Arthur Watson, C.B.E., to be Assistant General Manager of the Company. Major Watson was chief assistant engineer to the Company from 1905 to 1911, when he became Superintendent of the Line.

It is with mixed feelings that admirers of the articles by "A Student of War," in the Manchester Guardian will read of the appointment of Mr. H. Sidebotham, the author of those articles, as successor to Colonel Repington on the staff of the Times.

Mr. Sidebotham is acknowledged to be one of the most expert military critics of the war.

We may anticipate heavy crops of Yorkshire potatoes, as we have now an O.M.—Mr. R. E. Toombs—as sub-organiser of the spraying of potatoes in the county of broad acres.

Amongst articles recently written by Old Mancunians are included the following:—

"School Cadet Corps," in School Hygiene, by Dr. A. A. Mumford, an article which has received much attention from the War Office, and promises to revolutionise the training in O.T.C.'s.

In the same magazine, "Standard Measurements for School Children," by Dr. James Kerr.

"Three Passages in Hesiod's Works and Days," in the Classical Review for May, by Mr. T. L. Agar.

"Patriots in the Making," in School and Society for April, by Dr. I. L. Kandel.

"Serra Golda in Jerusalem," "From the Stream to the River," and "Murmuryngemham," by Mr. L. Golding in the Manchester Guardian.

The death is announced, in his 81st year, of the Rev. Thomas Hill Guest, M.A., formerly rector of St. Mark's, Hulme, and Poulton-le-Fylde. He was a classical master at the School in the days of Walker.

Mr. J. R. Finlayson has been appointed a Justice of the Peace for Lancashire.

Mr. S. D. Barlow, invalided out of the Army, has been engaged by the St. Clement's Press, Kingsley.

Mr. Humphrey Lynde has been appointed Notary Public for Great Yarmouth and district.

The Rev. J. Bamber has been appointed to the Rectory of Radcliffe.

The Acting Secretary of the O.M.A. asks members to note the following additions and corrections in the Roll of Honour as published in the Annual Report:—

McLaren Hamilton, W., 2nd Lieut., 8th Lancashire Fusiliers
 Mutch, C. H., Captain
 Tyson, Harold H., 2nd Lieut., Northumberland Fusiliers
 Wardle, R. A., 2nd Lieut., Northumberland Fusiliers
 Patten, R. S., Captain
 Holden, Ernest, 2nd Lieut., 3rd Lancashire Fusiliers
 Wood, Philip B., Pte., 1st Loyal N. Lincs.
 Craston, George Vernon, Lance-Cpl., 13th Rifle Brigade (died of wounds)
 Telford, E. D., Capt., R.A.M.C., is alive and still serving.

Also at p. 24 the entry should run under heading "Commander of the Order of the British Empire":—Watson, Arthur, C.B.E., M.I.C.E., Assistant Manager of the L. & Y. R. and member of the Railway Executive Committee, London.

Obituary.

CLARENCE GOODWYN.

It is with sincere regret that we have to announce the loss of Clarence Goodwyn, of IV.γ. Always cheery and willing, he was a great comfort at home, and will be missed by masters and boys alike. A pupil of North Manchester School, he joined us in September, 1916, and during the past year has taken a high position in his Form. He was away from School for less than a fortnight, when his illness suddenly took a serious turn, and he passed away on Saturday, June 8th.

Verse.

AGANIPPE FOUNT.

Tread softly in the paths of song;
 calm the Muses are, and wise;
 their living thoughts flow gently forth from sad and visionary eyes.

No violence may harbour there.
 Souls of sin and splendid riot can never learn to apprehend the vast illimitable quiet.

If thou would'st roam within their realms, hold thy breath: still thy heart.
 For marvellous dreams are nigh at hand that will enrapture, and depart, leaving unbounded love in thee,
 and god-like impassivity.

O. A.

A Letter from Palestine.

DEAR Ulula.—Do you still exist? It is many moons since we have met, and I am almost sure that someone once made me a life member of the O.M.A.—it was a twenty-first birthday gift. Well, I still have the almost unique distinction of being alive, and you are apparently ignoring the fact.

I am stationed at the moment 3,000 feet above the sea, and looking East, Jerusalem is clearly visible 10 miles away; looking West, I can just see Jaffa and the sea. It really is "some spot." On a little hill 300 yards away, and just opposite my H.Q., stands an old Nunnery, and on this spot rested the Ark of the Covenant during a part of its wanderings. An M.O. explained all this to me yesterday, a very nice M.O. too. I dropped a fearful brick over it though. Looking bright and intelligent (with an effort) I suggested that it must have been a very wet day for the Ark to get up there. The M.O. looked pained and surprised, and explained that the Ark aforementioned did not float, and that I was apparently confusing the same with Noah's Ark. Shades of Glazebrook, Ulula! and after all the money my people have spent on my education! I simply must not dabble in these things.

The very best of luck, Ulula. I do hope you haven't had to chuck it because of the paper shortage one hears so much about.

Yours as ever,

Palestine L. of C. H.Q.,
E.E.F.

S. NAYLOR, Lieutenant,
Staff Lieutenant.

CORRECTIONS :—

Lieut. H. Verney Clayton, whose winning of the M.C. was recorded in a recent number, is not an Old Mancunian.
 Capt. E. D. Telford, who in the O.M. Year Book is said to have died of wounds, is alive and serving on the staff of the 2nd W.
 Hospital in Manchester.

NOTE.—Readers are reminded that promotions and transfers are not recorded in Ulula, but in the O.M. Year Book. They should be reported to J. A. Darbyshire, at the School.

The War.

KILLED IN ACTION OR DIED OF WOUNDS.

Corporal William Edmondson Almond, R.G.A. (1904-06) was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Almond, of Farnworth, Bolton. He was a Director of Messrs. Almond, Ltd., of Manchester and Farnworth, and was a well-known golfer. He leaves a widow and two children.

Captain William Kingo Armstrong, South Lancashire Regiment (1905-07), whose death was recorded in our last number, was killed in action on April 11th. He was the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Armstrong, Heald Green, late of Cheetham Hill. After leaving the School he was a student at the School of Technology, and at Manchester University. He was a member for four years of the O.T.C., and passed his examinations as a lieutenant before the outbreak of war. He was gazetted in the first week of the war, and, with the exception of sick leave on account of shell-shock in 1917, had been at the front the whole of the time. When called up he was a student-pupil at the British Westinghouse Ltd., and was a member of the Institution of Mechanical Engineers. He was 26 years of age.

Lance-Corporal George Vernon Craston, Rifle Brigade (1906-08), died of wounds on May 16th in hospital at Tréport. He had served in France for about eighteen months. His parents live at Stretford.

Second-Lieutenant Douglas Roy Dilworth-Harrison, Durham L.I. (1897-99), was the elder surviving son of the late Mr. James and of Mrs. Dilworth-Harrison, formerly of Burnley. After leaving the School he went to the Durham College of Science. Afterwards he served as first engineer on a Prince Line boat, and then undertook electrical work at Paisley. He joined the Army in 1914, and received his commission in 1916. He had been in France for above two years, and for twelve months had been assistant adjutant of his battalion. He was killed in action between March 27th and April 3rd, his name appearing in the Roll of Honour in our last number.

Lieutenant John Donaldson, Royal Warwick Regiment (1908-12) had served in Egypt and Gallipoli with the Manchester Territorials. His parents live in Higher Broughton. His death was recorded in our last number, and on June 3 it was announced that he had been awarded the Military Cross.

Private A. Malcolm Haig, King's Liverpool Regiment (1900-02), was the only son of the late Mr. G. Haig and of Mrs. Haig, of Didsbury, and was the husband of Mrs. Haig, of Northenden. He died of wounds on April 11th. He was in his 32nd year.

Lance-Corporal Charles Howarth, Royal Fusiliers (1907-12) died of wounds last month at a Sheffield Hospital, after six weeks of great suffering. His home was at Rochdale. He joined the Public Schools Battalion in November, 1914, went to France a year later, was wounded in July, 1916, but recovered and returned to France in January, 1917. He was in his 23rd year. W. F. Harrison, a friend of his, both at School and afterwards, writes: "He was a perfect friend, loyal, straight, and unselfish, a true type of Grammar School boy. He was beloved and respected by all with whom he came in contact, and will be much missed in the Rochdale circle of Old Mancunians." He was the only son of his parents.

Second-Lieutenant J. H. Molyneux, K.R.R.C. (1904-07) was reported missing and wounded on August 16th, 1917, and is now regarded as killed. He was the son of Mr. J. T. Molyneux, of Plymouth Grove, Manchester.

Second-Lieutenant Arthur James Orr, Manchester Regiment (1911-16) was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Orr, of Prestwich. He was killed in action, instantaneously, on April 23rd, while leading his platoon. His Captain writes: "To his brother officers, who feel his loss very keenly, he was a pattern of clean living, a man amongst men. He endeared himself to all who came within his gentle influence. Officers and men mourn the passing of such a perfect gentleman." At the School he was in the first football team, and was one of the best full backs that the School has ever had.

Second-Lieutenant W. H. Parker, Worcestershire Regiment (1906-10), joined the 7th Manchesters as a private in September, 1914, and went out to Gallipoli as Sergeant in July, 1915, where he served through the campaign until the evacuation. He was then appointed Company Quartermaster Sergeant and went with his Regiment to Egypt, where he took part in several brushes with the Turks. In March 1916, his regiment was drafted to France. After twenty-two months of active service he came home on his first leave, was recommended for a commission, and was gazetted to the Worcesters. He left for France on January 6th of this year, and, while leading his Company fell in action on April 26th, near Kemmel. The day before, he was awarded the Military Cross for gallant conduct in action on March 22nd. We are indebted to a friend for the following appreciation:—

"His life was gentle; he was a devoted son and an affectionate brother, and had troops of warm friends; his worldly prospects were all that one might desire. And yet, animated by the glorious traditions of his old School, he was willing to sacrifice all the joys that surrounded him and responded promptly to the call of duty. No tribute to Harold Parker's fine character could better the words he wrote in his last letter home:— 'I'm getting tired of this business out here, but I've always got in mind that we are fighting for our King and Country, defending our nation and the homes of those we love.'"

DISTINCTIONS.

Arthur Lloyd Cooper, Second-Lieutenant, 13th Battalion Rifle Brigade, B.E.F., France. Gazetted May, 1917, as Second-Lieutenant, awarded Military Cross in November last:—"For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. He showed great ability and energy in distributing the company as the situation required, pushing out advanced posts, siting his Lewis Gun positions, and wiring his front, with the result that an enemy attack though made in greatly superior numbers, was repulsed with heavy loss and the whole of the line remained intact after very severe fighting. During the enemy's attack he got out of the trench and moved about between his advanced posts, organising carrying parties and directing operations in full view of the enemy. He set a splendid example of courage and leadership."

Corporal John Mathie Foster, Manchester Regiment, winner of the Military Medal, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Foster, of Withington. The official award says:—"On March 25th this stretcher-bearer worked with splendid energy under fire. On the three succeeding days he worked continuously under very heavy fire. His conduct was a splendid example to the rest of the bearers." He received the Belgian Croix de Guerre in September last year for conspicuous bravery and devotion in bringing in the wounded.

Company Sergeant-Major W. H. Johnston, A.S.C., was awarded the D.C.M. on April 11th. The award says:—"During a period of three months he has shown energy and initiative, has performed fine service, and has displayed great devotion to duty." He has also been mentioned three times in despatches.

Second-Lieutenant H. R. Martin (an Old Mancunian), son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Martin, of Pendleton, has been awarded the Military Cross. Second-Lieutenant H. R. Martin took part in holding back the Huns during their push on the Somme. He was in command of a forward trench, his fellow-officers became casualties, two being killed and one wounded. He was left in command of the company until a senior officer to himself took over from him. Lieutenant Martin went up and down the trench cheering his men up. His company beat off several attacks and held on to the position. He joined the 6th Manchester Regiment in March, 1913, served with the 2/5th Royal Warwicks for twelve months in France, and was then sent home for his commission. He is now attached to the 6th Manchesters.

Second-Lieutenant W. S. Montgomerie, attached Divisional H.Q. Staff, who has been specially mentioned by Sir Douglas Haig, was in the Modera Sixth, and won a scholarship at St. John's College, Cambridge. Before joining as a private in 1915 the A. and S. Highlanders, he was language master at Bolton Grammar School.

Second-Lieutenant Alec. C. Scott, M.G.C., won his Military Cross in Palestine in November, 1917. His colonel recommended him for "conspicuous gallantry in the defence of Neby Samwil. It was greatly due to his skill and the intrepid use of his guns that the position was tenable." In a letter home Lieutenant Scott gives a vivid description of the fight; how a Turkish shell knocked one of his guns out and blew him and another man down some stairs; how he then got his guns going in the gate of a temple, and held "Johnny," the enemy, at bay till reinforcements came up. He and his men, whom he praises most highly, won five out of seven awards given for this action.

Private C. P. Taylor, City of London Regiment, son of Mr. T. E. Taylor, of Timperley, won his Military Medal in an action on March 25th. The official statement runs:—"He displayed great bravery in bringing in wounded, under heavy shell fire, after all stretcher-bearers had been killed or wounded."

NOTE.—The Editors would be very grateful for details and short appreciations from relatives or friends of O.M.'s whose names appear in the lists of those killed in action or in lists of distinctions.

Flax Weeding in Dorset.

Let those who think it absurd to have sent us so far afield reflect that labour is scarce and weeds are many, that schools in the South have no Whitsuntide holidays, and that we are richer than most in experience of camping life. From our point of view the scheme was admirable. First a journey full of interest—Shrewsbury, Church Stretton, Ludlow, Leominster, Hereford, the eight minutes' plunge below the Severn's bed, the stay at Bristol with time for food and sightseeing, and then the leisurely West Country train through the beautiful Avon valley, past picturesque Bradford and stately Bath, until the night fell and Bridport in its darkness was a town of mystery as in three divisions we left it behind us to seek our respective camps. These offered quarters by no means uniform in type. If alliteration be allowed, Chideock may be called plainly practical, Walditch proudly palatial, and Netherbury piggishly primitive. But such small details gave us no concern. The main thing was the long day in the open, where the broad flax fields on the rolling hills called for our honest effort in an unfamiliar form of labour. It was not heavy work, but the countless thistles had to be cleanly cut with an instrument rather too short, after several hours, for real comfort, and the docks to be extracted by the roots. Some of us thought it monotonous, and certainly the occasional sight of an airship hovering over the coastline was a welcome excuse for straightening aching backs. But the end of the day found us not distressingly tired, though we all noticed a curious eye symptom, causing us to see thistles everywhere, on the road, on the walls, and even on the dinner table. Wet days, happily, were few. Weeding cannot be done when the fields are soaked, and we were anxious not to be deemed mere parasites on an over-benevolent Government. Yet at times when work was impossible we readily found occupation in exploring the country, and the owl on our caps has been visible as far East as Weymouth and as far West as Seaton. So much can bicycles effect even on flinty roads. Netherbury camp was enterprising enough to play Beaminster Grammar School at cricket, but on the day when a football match was arranged for the evening they had worked so long and late that on arriving at Beaminster they found their opponents had gone to bed. West Bay was attractive with its submarine-hunting motor launches, and Bridport's placid sleepiness charmed us by contrast with the restlessness of Market Street. Health was good, as indeed it ought to be in a land of plenty, where "butter and eggs and a pound of cheese" were sold with no niggling restrictions; where bacon sizzled in generous rashers; where "squish" and "squash" were both attainable, and "stodge" was splendidly satisfying. From good health came good work—those in charge have no complaint to make on this score; and from good work came a quiet mind, with no alloy of regret to mingle with our pleasant memories of Dorset. Its people gave us the kindest of welcomes, and their dialect introduced us to new and strange beasts like the "hippontkoiloin." We shall not easily forget them and their beautiful land; the gracious lines of the hills, each crowned with its clump of trees; the long sweep of the Channel coastline with its sheer brown cliffs and shingly beaches; and the deep-sunk lanes where stitchwort, primrose, and ragged robin lent value to the blues of hyacinth, violet, and speedwell. An adorable world, if only the world were at peace!

A Ballad of Netherbury.

("Utinam omne spinarum genus unam cervicem haberet.")

O Ne'erbury brew'ry, now to thee all praise
 For hours of joy we spent beneath thy tiles,
 Which, leaking, yet to us were shelter sure.
 No better use than this thou e'er hadst served.
 Two score and three were we, and workers all,
 Flax-weeding, ranged in line across our "ridge,"
 Stabbing the while the unsuspecting weed.
 For longer hoes we wished as with bent backs
 'Neath scorching sun we strained our aching limbs,
 Or, eyes uplifting, towards the skies of blue,
 Saw imag'd there the forms of thistle foes.
 But joyous times were ours as well as toil.
 The "non dies" we welcomed with much glee.
 Cycling, afoot, or riding Fennah's steed—
 Far quainter "horse" than that of Trojan fame—
 We traversed hills and dales to West Bay's shore,
 Or, further braving, reached Lyme Regis' strand,
 Or even Weymouth's stately promenade.
 Of football, sing-song, boxing would I tell,
 And Sinclair's soul-inspiring bugle-call,
 Of Kenyon's service loyal, and Davies' aid,
 And Derby's Aesculapian remedies,
 Mystic, effective, bringing quick relief;
 Of Mr. Johnstone's bank which held our pay,
 Herr Collinge's dramatic "recitoots;"
 Of Somers' willing hand and Greg's good stews,
 And Madge's useful guidance on the field,
 Of Commandant's kind care and Warren's help,
 Of orchards full of cider-bearing bloom,
 And tinkling rivulet by Bem'ster's church,
 Of owl's nocturnal hoot and chiff-chaff's cry.
 We lived; and in that word is all expressed.
 The coloured tangle of life's varied dream
 Outshone the brightness of the sunlit sky;
 For young were we, and in our hearts was bred
 A rich ripe gladness springing from the gleam
 Of friendships strong and genial company.

The Lydiate Camp.

The camp at Lydiate, though beset at first with many difficulties, proved to be the success for which we hoped. To mention all the difficulties the exigences of space would not permit, but through the insuperable and untiring energies of the boys, who worked nine hours a day, and the overpowering kindness of everyone with whom we came in contact, the difficulties vanished, and without any shortage of food, the camp has well paid its way. The success of the camp was greatly enhanced by the generosity of Mr. Blackledge, who proved himself a true "Liverpool gentleman." Besides giving us the loan of his grounds for the camp, he provided us with fuel free and gave us unconditional use of his billiard and music rooms, a favour which was appreciated by all. Mr. Smith, the groom and gardener, was also very kind, and was well liked by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Littlewood helped us at very turn; but for the Vicar we should never have known the taste of Ormskirk gingerbread, and the thought of the tea Mr. J. R. Bate gave us at Ormskirk Grammar School still makes our mouths water.

The work was general farm work, consisting chiefly of potato-planting and weeding, tossing manure and tying up spring cabbages. The bigger boys found out the painful truth of the maxim, "It's a short back that needs no bending." The most inspiring work, however, was tossing manure. On a blazing hot day to have one's head continually enveloped in the steaming, stinking, stifling, stultifying, stench of strong manure—well, it was not a drawing-room camp. The best testimony of our work that we can offer is that we have been asked to come again in midsummer.

In spite of the long hours and hard work we found time for recreation. We had a cricket match with Ormskirk Grammar School and a game of football with a team of farm hands. Billiards came in very useful when it was wet. We were also regaled with music and several boys discovered latent talent and played the pianola with consummate skill. Taking everything into consideration we thoroughly enjoyed ourselves, and we hope the camp at midsummer will be equally successful.

Pott Shrigley Scout Camp.

Nearly 70 scouts of Troops I., II. and III., with Scoutmasters Dymond and Smith in charge, spent ten days of the Whitsuntide holidays under canvas at Pott Shrigley. The glorious time they had was, no doubt, largely due to the daily Tent Inspection, on which the officers spent so much time and thought, but a little credit should be given to minor forms of amusement. As an example of the latter, we would mention the illustrious At, of camp fire fame, and Bs, whose kit showed him to be a true backwoodsman (vide "Esses for Beer" Chap. 3, p. 98). Two sections of the Inter-Troop Competition were held, those for the Signalling and Sports Trophies, which were won by Troops III. and II. respectively. One of the events of the camp was the scouting game with the 1st Bollington Troop, one of the greatest battles the world has ever witnessed. The most striking (the thunderstorm's attempts in this connection are to be highly commended) feature of the camp was the excellent food, and for this and other factors which made it such an unqualified success, we are most grateful to Scoutmasters Dymond and Smith.

The chief Sports results were as follows:—Sports Champion (open), Southern, Troop III.; (under 14), Lecomber, Troop II.; Sports Trophy, Troop II.

"King's Own Agriculturists."

MENTIONED IN DESPATCHES.

Dorset:—Kenyon, E. (Capt.); Derbyshire, J. A. (H. VI.); Davies, C. H. (C. VI.); Majdalany, A. (Sc. VI.); Kemp, C. E. (M. VI.); Gregory, D. (IV. a.); Somerford, A. R. (C.V.); Dean, A. (Mod. VI.); Jackson, K. (M.T.b.); Colling, R. (M.T.b.); Scott, T. (Sc. VI.); Leach, C. H. (M. VI.)

We must also mention the O.T.C. section of this camp for their excellent work.

Alderley :—McEachran, F. (Mod. VI.); Levy, E. A. (Sc. VI.); Warburton, W. E. (C. VI.); Brown, H. (M.T.a.)

Poynton :—Jordan, F. C. (R. Alpha); Affleck, D. (3c); Andrew, J. (R. beta); Jennett, S. (II. Alpha).

Railway Work.

ANNUAL REPORT.

The 8th of March ushered in the second year of "Railway Work," that form of National Service which has provided full occupation for so many M.G.S. boys whose Saturday afternoons a year ago were spent in a much less strenuous manner.

In Railway Work they have found an attractive, and, be it added, remunerative way of taking their share in the war. They have gained considerable experience of the life of the working man, having unloaded and stacked iron, timber, coke, filled wagons and bags with sawdust for shell-cleaning and horse-bedding, dug an excavation 90 ft. by 50 ft. by 5 ft. deep, unloaded all the material for the construction of Ambulance trains for the various fronts, and generally made themselves useful. The result is that whereas a year ago they were worn out and weary at the end of the shift, now they feel little fatigue after the four hours of strenuous labour.

As a strong feeling of friendship and camaraderie has grown up between the boys and their foremen, it was decided, at the boys' request, to invite the foremen to the tea and entertainment with which we celebrated the first anniversary.

The success of the concert was guaranteed when, at the earnest request of Mr. Ashby, a party of his colleagues, the Minnehaha Minstrels, with their banjos, bones, vocalists and humourists consented to give their valuable assistance. Supplemented by items given by Miss Styler, Miss Lees and members of the School, they presented us with so attractive a programme that the concert was pronounced, without a dissentient voice, to be one of the most enjoyable which we have had at the School.

To show the appreciation with which our efforts at Newton Heath have been received, we print below an extract from the letter from Mr. Gobey, the Superintendent at the Works, which the High Master read out at the concert :—

"It is just twelve months since we first had your assistance in the unloading of wagons, and in perusing some of the details, I notice that, during this period, the boys have moved a total weight of over 6,000 tons of material, and unloaded or loaded over 800 wagons, apart from the excavating, which has recently been most helpful, as it is a particularly urgent War measure. These are results you may well be proud of."

As a supplement to the above report we have the following statistics from Mr. Ashby of the work done during the first twelve months :—

No. of shifts worked	5,000
Average No. of boys per week	100

Apart from the excavating, 6,000 tons of material have been loaded or unloaded, giving an average of 6.25 cwts. per boy per hour.

Two thousand tons of ground dug out, wheeled away and loaded into wagons, giving an average of 10.25 cwts. per boy per hour.

This is a low estimate, taking the weight of the clay to be 1 ton per cubic yard, whereas in the wet weather $1\frac{1}{2}$ tons would probably be more accurate.

Finally, throughout the Whitsuntide holidays, side by side with the flax and potato camps, 24 boys under the supervision of the untiring Mr. Ashby, attended the excavating every day, carrying on in the absence of the flax-weeders.

Football.

REVIEW OF THE SEASON 1917-18.

At the beginning of the season there was good cause to hope for great things, since there were no less than six colours left on the team, as well as four Second Team colours. That that hope was well founded is proved by the results, which shew that the First Team has lost but two matches out of twenty, while the Second Team has an equally creditable result to shew. These successes may be traced in the first place to the individual and collective keenness which has been shewn on all sides throughout the season, and secondly, to the excellent training and assistance which Mr. Green has so generously afforded. School football has suffered several losses this season, three members, Marquis, Evans and Lamb having left at Christmas, but the loss of Mr. Green is one that it is impossible to compensate for. We wish him the best of luck and a safe and speedy return.

This review would be incomplete without some mention of the National Service performed by School footballers in the digging at the Cliff. Quite a large patch of ground has been turned over and prepared for potatoes, and the members of the First Team in particular have shewn zeal and enthusiasm.

The results are as follows:—

	Pl'd	Won	Lost	Drawn	Gls. for	Gls. agst	%
First Team	20	17	2	1	111	30	88
Second Team	14	11	2	1	57	19	82
Third Team	11	7	4	0	47	34	64
Fourth Team	10	5	2	3	61	22	65
Under 14 Team	11	8	1	2	47	18	81

J. C. B.

APPENDED ARE THE CHARACTERS OF THE TEAM.

†MARQUIS, F. (Centre Forward).—Speedy, with strong kick. Without doubt one of the best and most successful players who has ever led the School attack. Dribbles and heads extremely well, shoots accurately, and puts his whole energy into the game. His brilliant example has always stood the team in good stead.

*EVANS, D. L. (Right Full Back).—Quick and powerful, but should judge the bounce of the ball better and put more vigour into the game.

*LAMB, A. L. (Goal).—Has kept goal with great success. Sure in picking up, and handles neatly, but must develop a stronger kick.

OLIVER (Goal).—A most keen player. Will improve with practise.

- MARSH, A. (Right Full Back).—Sure kick with either foot, and places the ball well. Tackles excellently, and his play has been consistently good. Colours well deserved.
- PERKINS, J. (Left Full Back).—Strong kick, and tackles vigorously, but should watch the opposing forwards more closely.
- †BLAKE, J. C. (Right Half Back).—Has proved himself a most reliable secretary. Knows how, when and where to pass, feeding his forwards exceedingly well, and his tackling throughout has been most conspicuous. Our best wishes go with him in his captaincy next season.
- *KEMP, C. E. (Left Half Back).—Has played consistently well all through the season. Tackles well, but kicks and heads rather wildly at times.
- WATTS, — (Outside Right).—Well deserved his colours. Plays with vigour and centres well. Until unfortunate enough to break his collar bone was a most useful member of the Team.
- WARBURTON, W. E. (Inside Right).—A very keen player. Combines well with his wing, and puts himself in the right place at the right time.
- †COLLING, R. H. (Centre).—Has filled with some success the breach left by Marquis. An accurate shot, and heads with certainty. Rather slow, and should put more spirit into the game.
- *HARRIS, H. (Left Inside).—A most useful forward. Kicks powerfully and has complete control of the ball, but must make more ground instead of dribbling in mid-field.
- DEAN, A. (Outside Left).—Well deserved his colours. A speedy winger, able to lift the ball well into the centre. Uses his weight to good advantage and puts in excellent corners. G. F. M.
- †ROWBOTHAM, G. M. (Centre Half).—Has filled the position of captain with great success. As a centre half he is keen, quick on the ball, and never fails to rob his opponent. Good shot with either foot, and has scored several brilliant and useful goals. J. C. B.

Lacrosse.

CHARACTERS OF THE TEAM.

- †SCOTT, T. (Goal).—A really clever goalkeeper, has saved some good shots, and been a valuable asset to the Team. Might be keener.
- †MAJDALANY, A. (R. W. D.).—A firm defence man who has proved himself a difficult opponent. Should improve his passing and overcome a tendency to use one-handed checks. Well deserved his colours.
- *WEBB, R. W. (L. W. D.).—A vigorous defence man who has lent valuable assistance to the attack by his frequent runs up the field.
- DYCHKOFF, A. A. C. (Pt.).—A defence player who has improved greatly during the latter half of the season, but is still rather slow.
- †POYSER, R. H. (C. Pt.).—Although handicapped by lack of weight has proved himself a valuable asset to the defence. Checks hard and sticks to his man well.
- YOUATT, R. (3rd M.).—A defence player of great promise. His handling is good.

- ¶DYCHKOFF, M. A. C. (R. W. A.)—A clever attack. Shoots well, but should not be frightened of running after the ball.
- LOWTHIAN, H. (3rd H.)—Has shown considerable promise since his inclusion in the Team. Checks well.
- *WRIGHT, J. (2nd H.)—A clever handler, one of the mainstays of the attack. Shooting rather weak.
- †CRAIG, A. B. (L. W. A.)—A much improved player. Handles cleverly, and has a useful turn of speed. Passes well, but should do so more frequently. Has ably performed the office of secretary during the latter part of the season. H. S.
- †SPENCER, H. (C.)—A keen and vigorous player, who uses his weight and checks well. Imparts enthusiasm to the whole side by his tireless energy and dash, and has captained the Team excellently under very difficult conditions.

S. B. H., A. B. C.

Also played :—

- GRAHAM, D. (1st H.)—Did well on the Second Team, but has not fulfilled his early promise as a member of the First Team.
- TAWIL, J. (3rd H.)—One of the best players on the Second Team. A good handler. Played quite well for the First Team.

Literary Society.

A meeting of the Society was held on March 19th, when Mr. Nairn (Secretary of the Garrick Society) read a paper on Omar Khayyam, the Persian poet-astronomer of the 12th century, dealing chiefly with Fitzgerald's fine translation of the Rubaiyat.

Edward Fitzgerald entirely remoulded the original work, and produced something more than a mere translation—a real masterpiece. In criticising the poem, Mr. Nairn showed how Omar Khayyam in his struggles for comprehension, at first inclined towards agnosticism, but later, at least, acknowledged the existence of a Deity. What Omar Khayyam missed was a simple and child-like faith in a God, having no hopes in the future. The paper was followed by an interesting discussion, which touched successively on the mystic charm of the Rubaiyat, the philosophy of Omar, and the all-absorbing questions of free-will and pre-destination.

A meeting was held on April 10th, when the Vice-President, H. V. Styler, read a paper on Charles Kingsley, the famous socialistic and romantic writer of the Victorian period.

Kingsley came of a family of soldiers, and spent his infancy in romantic Dartmoor. He received a good education, finally taking Honours in Classics at Cambridge, and chose the Church for a career. All his sympathies were with the lower classes, and he inclined to the views of Carlyle, who desired to lead Chartism into the wider channels of Socialism.

Kingsley's first novels, "Yeast" and "Alton Locke," are full of insight and charm, but he is found at his best in "Hypatia," and greatest of all, "Westward Ho." In 1869 he visited the West Indies, just at the outbreak of the Franco-Prussian war. In that conflict Kingsley, like most Englishmen of the time, sympathised with the Germans. From the West Indies he proceeded to America, and died shortly after his return home to England. Styler concluded his paper with a few selections from Kingsley's poetry.

On Tuesday, April 23rd, the Society met to read selections from Irish Literature. After various readings from Yeats, Russell, Mangan and Ferguson, the Society proceeded to read the First Act of Synge's "Playboy of the Western World." The keen humour of this piece was much appreciated, and it is greatly to be regretted that the piece was not finished.

On Tuesday, April 30th, F. B. Alcock read an interesting paper on the "Irish Literary Revival," commencing with a brief sketch of the rise and fall of the ancient Gaelic Literature.

After treating briefly of the "Nation" movement in Ireland, he went on to detail the contest of the ancient and modern school, the former represented by the "Nation" coterie, the latter by Yeats, Hyde, and others, the point at issue being whether plagiarism or originality should be the aim of modern Irish poets. Success has justified the contention of the modern school.

After detailing the minor poets of the Irish Literary Revival, Alcock went on to contrast Yeats and Russell, emphasising the fact that to Russell mysticism had been a reality and an end, to Yeats a means to embellish his poetry. The literary style of the paper was excellent, and the numerous extracts read both luminous and interesting.

Chess Club.

Much of this month's report was to have been published in the April Ulula, but it was then unavoidably omitted. We are pleased to announce that a correspondence match with Fettes College, which had been begun some time ago, ended in our favour after about twenty moves, and though it is rather late in the season there is some prospect of starting another such match.

Towards the end of the Easter term, Mr. Willis gave us a most interesting lecture on "Endings." The lecturer showed us many useful problems and their solution, and throughout particularly emphasised the value of pawns which beginners often tend to scorn. The demonstration board, for which the Club is much indebted to Mr. Ogden, was then used for the first time.

The league tournament is finished. Out of eight matches the first team has won seven and lost only one, thus scoring easily the highest number of points. The one match lost was against the second team, which is to be congratulated on its success. Under the able leadership of its captain it has fully justified its existence, and as it affords excellent practice to players in great need of it, all efforts should be made for its continuance next year. The Chess and Draughts Championships were won by B. Haring and A. B. Craig respectively. We welcome the new chess champion, who well deserves the honour he has gained. Though somewhat erratic, he has much improved of late, and shows much promise. The "Slidings Odds" Competition was as usual very popular, and keenly contested. The first prize, a medal offered by V. L. Wahltsch, Esq., was won by C. Bermudez.

The Science Side has for the third time in succession won the Inter-Sides Competition, the scores being:—Science Side, 13½ points; Classical Side, 11 points; Modern Side, 10½ points; Mathematical Side, 6 points. The Masters' Match, which had not been played for some years, ended in a draw, whilst a match with the recently-formed Westinghouse Chess Club was easily won.

In the last few weeks the First Team has beaten Clayton Congregational by 4½—2½ points, thus winning the Wahltsch Trophy and bringing to a satisfactory close one of the best seasons the Club has ever had. E. A. L.

Stirring Books from Harrap's List.

A GRAND BOOK FOR BOYS AND YOUNG AIRMEN.

“Thrilling Deeds of British Airmen,” By Eric Wood.

With Eight Plates in Colour and Black and White, by G. H. DAVIS and others.
Large Crown 8vo. 320 pages. 5/- net.

This exciting book is full of derring-do, and concludes with a chapter on Captain Ball.

Daring Deeds of Merchant Seamen

IN THE GREAT WAR. By HAROLD F. B. WHEELER.

With Colour Frontispiece and Eight other Illustrations by leading Artists. 320 pages.
Size 7½ by 5¼ ins. 5/- net. With strong Picture Jacket.

The New Warfare.

Translated by F. ROTHWELL from Mr. G. Blanchon's recent work “La Guerre Nouvelle.”
Crown 8vo. 256 pages. 3s. 6d. net.

THIS is the most brilliant and interesting attempt which has yet been made to give a synthetic view of the manifold activities, in their most recent developments, which come into play in modern warfare, and to forecast the evolution of warfare in the light of these developments.
