VOL. XVIII.

CHRISTMAS, 1916.

No. 55.

Editorial.

WHERE is evident in every sphere—and especially in that kind of phenomena termed 'Editorials'—an insatiable desire for originality: but the very protestation of that desire generally brands itself as unoriginal. We, therefore, who would also like to lay some pretensions to the quality, must at least content ourselves with that spirit of originality which has sprung into being in the School. For years we have longed for a little 'initiative' on the part of individuals, and there are, this term, such signs of it as to justify a belief in yet a fresh era in the Annals of Llandovery.

The Musical Society has reawakened with redoubled energy after a sleep of a year or so. We began to wonder whether the Debating Society was really a thing of the past, but this too has been revived. In addition, there is a recently organised 'Dramatic Society' which intends staging its efforts at the end of term.

Further, our Fifteen has not only upheld its reputation, but has, by defeating Brecon with a record score of 56 points to nil, excelled it. We offer our heartiest congratulations to the Rev. T. W. Thomas, the Captain, and the whole team on their achievement, and especially to N. E. Evans, who, by crossing the Brecon line seven times, has created an individual record. We feel that the Fifteen was in honour bound to wipe off last term's disaster, and we are positively certain that vengeance is complete.

In one particular we must sacrifice originality, or pretended originality, to veracity, and follow the example of former sub-Editors, who have found it a moral duty to express the gratitude due to Miss Russel, for the excellent way in which she has cared for all in health and sickness.

For some unknown reason, our predecessors have succumbed to the temptation to fill space by making weather-reports, but in this point we shall remain heretics. All else—to quote Tacitus—in loco reddemus.

We congratulate the Warden and Mrs. Poole-Hughes on the birth of a son, John Richard Worthington, on August 8th, at Llandoverly College.

Prize Distribution.

THE Prize Distribution, which was of a strictly private nature, was held in the School Hall on Friday, July 28th. As last year, no actual prizes were awarded, the money usually spent on books being given to various war funds; but the Warden presented certificates to those who would normally have received prizes. He also presented the Ladies' Medals to N. E. Evans and L. Rees, the Senior and Junior Sports Champions. He was confident, he remarked in a short address, that boys would in future time fully appreciate these 'mere scraps of paper,' and concluded by wishing the School a pleasant vacation. The Prize list was as follows:—

Football.

OUR chief complaint, needless to say, has been the scarcity of fixtures, for we even failed to meet Lampeter. Still, Football this term has been unusually keen, both on the Senior and Junior sides, while the result of our match with Brecon speaks for itself.

Our first and only match, excluding that against Brecon, was played on Tredegar Close on Saturday, Nov. 25th, when the Rev. T. W. Thomas brought a team against the School. Not much can be said about the 'science' displayed, as the ground was a mud-bath. The School pack played exceedingly well, while the combination of the backs was as good as could be expected, considering the abnormal condition of the ground.

Conspicuous on the other side were Messrs. Thomas, Williams, and Matheson; Mr. Barker proving himself an excellent leader of the forwards.

About 10 minutes from the start an exciting struggle in the mud ended in a try by Mr. Matheson, which was unconverted. Upon this the School played with more dash, N. E. Evans scoring a try, which G. G. Protheroe converted. The half-time score was—

School	5 points
Mr. Thomas' XV.	3 points

In the second half a brilliant rush by H. G. Davies nearly met with success, and a little later T. E. Owen lost an almost certain try through a forward pass. Mr. Williams crossed the School line, but a scrum was ordered at 5 yards for a previous irregularity. The School then made a rush, which brought a second try to N. E. Evans. Later the latter scored 2 tries in quick succession, one of which was converted. Though repeated attempts were made by the opposing side, the School defence was sure. Mr. Barker, by a good tackle, prevented the School from scoring once more, but soon after C. E. Jones scored for the School, D. H. Jones doing the same before 'no side' was called. Final score—

Llandovery	22 points
Mr. Thomas' XV.	3 points

SCHOOL v. CHRIST COLLEGE, BRECON.

Played at Brecon on Wednesday, Nov. 29th.

Brecon won the toss and elected to play with the wind, G. T. Jones kicking off for the School punctually. After somewhat 'scrappy' play the Brecon forwards made a most determined rush into the School 25. Superior 'bagging' by the School Side set the backs in motion, but the passing breaking down, Brecon found touch near our line. A series of short rushes, in which Protheroe was prominent, carried play into the opposing half. The School were getting the ball out nearly every time, and three subsequent passing bouts promised well. From a kick across N. E. Evans was pulled up for 'off-side,' but a moment later the same player made a determined effort to break through. However, another passing bout by the School backs resulted in a try by N. E. Evans far out. Protheroe converted with a splendid kick. From the kick off D. H. Jones secured the ball and tried to find touch; Brecon replying by doing so well in our half. The School forwards, headed by G. T. Jones and C. E. Jones, made a rush, carrying the ball right into the opposing '25.' Bowen then secured a pretty try, which was not converted. A short run by A. P. Roberts, two determined attempts by J. L. Evans, and another run by N. E. Evans, all nearly resulted in tries. Subsequently a round of passing which Brecon failed to check met with success, and D. H. Jones scored an unconverted try. From the drop-out the latter helped in a dribble into the Brecon 25, and N. E. Evans scored, Protheroe adding another 2 points to our score.

Brecon now rallied in excellent style and carried play into the School half, but N. E. Evans cleared with a lengthy kick to touch. The School backs again got going, and M. L. James was twice pulled up when tries seemed imminent. In a melée in the opposing 25 one of the Brecon forwards was, unfortunately, hurt, and had to leave the field. With seven forwards Brecon, it seemed, did even better, their 'wedge' formation giving the School some trouble. The ball was being heeled in good style by the Llandovery forwards, and a sharp exchange of passes between N. E. Evans and D. H. Jones brought the latter a try, which was uncon-verted. W. R. Richards was next prominent in a run, but was brought down in a smart tackle by the Brecon captain. Two free kicks now followed for 'feet up,' first against Llandovery, when Brecon succeeded in finding touch, and then against Brecon for the same offence, but the kick was charged down. N. E. Evans made one more determined run, and scored near the posts. Protheroe converted, and half-time arrived with the School well ahead. Score—

Llandovery ..	3 goals 3 tries (24 points)
Brecon ..	Nil

Immediately on resumption the School backs indulged in another passing bout, which was spoilt by a missed pass. Richards now taking his pass well scored an unconverted try. After the drop-off Brecon found touch, but the respite was brief, and Richards came near scoring once more. A smart run by the opposing right centre was checked by a sound tackle by M. L. James. Richards now taking a hard pass scored between the posts; D. H. Jones converted. From the kick-off play remained at half-way. Brecon now rallied once more, showing that vigour which up to the present has been a feature of this match. When almost on our line, the situation was saved by a strong 'hand-off' run by D. H. Jones. Later D. H. Jones and N. E. Evans secured another try, the former scoring and Protheroe again converting. From the kick-off the School forwards carried the ball into the opposing side's 25, and a short run by Roberts and J. L. Evans was cut short by the latter being brought down heavily by G. Thomas. A moment later, however, N. E. Evans scored an unconverted try. From the drop-out the latter again secured the ball and made a rush through the opposing team and secured another try; the kick again failed. The School pack made a rush up the field, and a clean 'heel' resulted in D. H. Jones crossing the Brecon line for the fourth time. N. E. Evans was tackled near the line, but scored another try immediately afterwards, which Protheroe converted. Shortly afterwards, Brecon still playing pluckily against odds, 'no side' was called. Score—

School	7 goals 7 tries (56 pts.)
Christ College, Brecon	Nil

The School team is to be congratulated on its signal success, and M. L. James also on skipping a side which has created a record score against Brecon, who failed to obtain one try. The home team was undoubtedly beaten in both forward and back play. It would be difficult to individualise, for the whole side worked with splendid combination, yet all due praise is to be given to N. E. Evans, who has created a record in scoring 7 tries. D. H. Jones, Richards, and Bowen shone among the backs, and J. L. Evans was an able leader of the forwards. Protheroe's hooking and place-kicking were all that was desirable.

The Brecon side seemed to play well during the first and last 15 minutes, and Roberts, their captain, played a very strenuous and hard game. Of the rest, G. Thomas and Jones were the most prominent, the full-back doing some good work also.

Finally, our heartiest sympathy is tendered to Leyshon, who, we understand, met with similar ill-luck against Monmouth.

Team v. Brecon.—R. Jones, N. E. Evans, D. H. Jones, M. L. James (Capt.), A. P. Roberts, W. R. Richards, I. D. Bowen, J. L. Evans, Protheroe, G. T. Jones, C. E. Jones, A. B. Davies, R. L. Davies, D. H. Atwood, E. O. Jones.

Referee.—Mr. T. D. Schofield, W.R.F.U., Bridgend.

After thus recording such a successful termination to the football season, we must not forget the services rendered by Messrs. T. W. Thomas, C. B. Matheson, A. Barker, and D. R. Williams, and their untiring help in training and playing against our XV.

Debating Society.

IT is a most pleasing and welcome duty to record the revival of the School Debating Society. This had, unfortunately, during recent years sunk into oblivion; and emerging once more from our lethargic state, we have been privileged to witness a remarkable display of oratorical ability and caustic wit on the part of various enterprising speakers, who up to the present have hidden their talents.

At a meeting of the Upper and Lower Sixths and Matriculation, the following officers were elected:—

President.—The Rev. the Warden.

Vice-President.—A. Barker, Esq.

Hon. Sec.—O. D. Ballinger.

The following were chosen to serve on the Committee:—
J. B. Young Evans, K. Fraser, and G. G. Protheroe.

The meeting then adjourned.

The first subject decided on by the committee for discussion was: 'In the opinion of this house Professionalism in Sport is to be discouraged.' The speakers called upon to support the motion being K. Fraser and J. L. Evans; for the opposition, J. B. Young Evans and C. E. P. Davies.

On Saturday night, Oct. 14th, the motion was put before the house. The minutes of the last meeting being read and passed, K. Fraser was called upon to make his opening address. He denounced in the strongest terms the rise of professional tendencies in sport, dwelling effectively on the noble way in which amateurs, in contrast with professionals as a whole, had responded to their country's call in her hour of need. Concluding a speech well stocked with logical arguments by a concise summary, he resumed his seat amidst a storm of applause.

J. B. Young Evans then rose to reply. In a voice well calculated to impress a larger body than was actually present, he denounced the first speaker as a concocter of 'unfounded fallacies.' By drawing analogies between School 'teas-in-tuck,' the stage, and professionalism, with a little more time at his disposal he would have bid fair to convince his hearers.

J. L. Evans then rose in support of the first speaker. He violently denounced the 'spirit' which these professionals displayed in their games. 'Taking money for games,' he said, 'was perverting the original object of sport.' He ended with an appeal to the house to support the endangered interests of sportsmen, their own interests in fine, thereby enlisting popular opinion in his favour.

C. E. P. Davies in his address proved himself a past-master in the art of sarcasm. Some of his statements too, we noticed, roused the ire of his hitherto complacent opponent, who essayed objections in riotous manner to several of his assertions.

In response to the Chairman's invitation for the opinions of members of the house, several gentlemen volunteered their views on the subject. The following spoke for the motion :—T. W. Hill, D. H. Jones, R. L. Davies, A. P. N. Roberts, and O. D. Ballinger. G. T. Jones for the opposition.

A spirited and bright debate ended in a victory for the movers of the motion by 34 to 11.

* * * *

At the next meeting of the Society on Saturday, Oct. 28, the subject for discussion was : ' In the opinion of the house there is sufficient evidence for belief in the Supernatural.'

This debate was, unfortunately, not as great a success as the first. D. H. Atwood gave a fluent address, seeming to be quite ' at home ' while speaking. He brought forward proofs of the existence of the supernatural, quoting the experience in a hospital of a certain lady well known to us all, and also an amusing incident of one ' Mr. Bone, a butcher.'

T. W. Hill replied to the first speaker. He gave us a learned scientific explanation of various natural phenomena, commonly regarded as supernatural, finally denouncing believers in ghosts as heavy dinner eaters or ' penny thrill ' readers.

Richards made a valiant effort to lead the house into supernatural realms. ' It was not sufficient to ascribe a few incidents to " pickled onions " or some other excess.' He proved that a pencil was not a supernatural thing, even though no one knew what became of it as it grew shorter [unless he looked at the chips.—ED.], and concluded his speech, labouring under what seemed to be an extraordinary emotion.

R. L. J. Davies replied in a most matter-of-fact manner. (Perhaps, ' I endorse,' is rather worked out by this time.) He gave a description of two little boys in a churchyard sharing nuts in most amusing and blasé style. He, too, ended by begging the house, inasmuch as none present were given to intemperance (excluding the opposition), to show their saneness of mind by discouraging this ' belief in supernatural.'

Pryce-Jones and A. P. Roberts spoke also in support of the motion, together with Young Evans, while K. Fraser spoke for the opposition.

Upon a show of hands the motion was declared lost by 15 to 29.

* * * *

A third meeting to discuss the subject, ' That in the opinion of the house Cinemas and Theatres are of Educational value,' saw a revival of the briskness lacking in the last debate.

C. E. P. Davies, in support of the motion, led us back to the Greek and Roman stage, thence passing on to the Elizabethan era. Finally he explained that the popularity of the Modern Revue is due to the class of people who go to see it, and not to the composer.

K. Fraser emphasised the immorality which existed on the stage at the present day. He spoke of the ' unreal ' nature of the characters on the stage when portraying life-scenes. Where was the educational value of the revue, or even Shakespearian plays which are so cut down to-day ?

In reply, G. T. Jones demonstrated the value of the cinema in portraying contemporary events and Natural History phenomena. He quoted Pathé's War News and the famous film, ' The Battle of the Somme,' as instances of the cinema's educational value.

Protheroe too ' endorsed ' his colleague's statements, dwelling largely on the question of ' Art for art's sake.' He led us on with many amusing incidents, among other things asking the meaning of ' dogfoul,' which appears in a popular song of to-day.

When the motion was finally thrown open, J. L. Evans, Young Evans, D. T. Reynolds, and H. V. Thomas spoke for the motion ; A. B. Davies, D. H. Jones, Pryce-Jones, D. P. G. Davies, E. C. Evans, T. W. Hill, R. L. Davies, W. M. Williams, D. H. Isaac, and A. Barker, Esq., opposed.

On a call for division the motion was lost by 14 to 29.

School Sing-Song.

THE musical element has assumed this term an exceedingly active form, and our Saturday evenings have certainly passed in a pleasant manner. The School choruses too, although somewhat wavering at first, have certainly improved, though the Carmen is subject to ruthless massacre through the existence of the two pronunciations. The first Sing-Song was a decided success. Below we give the programme—

Chorus—' The Poacher '
Part Song—' O, who will o'er the Downs with me ' ?
	The Choir.
Song—' Boys of the Old Brigade '
	Mr. Matheson.
Chorus—' John Peel '
Monologue—
	Mr. Barker.
Chorus—' Tarpaulin Jacket '
'Cello Solo—
	Mr. Graham.
Carmen.
	National Anthem.

The second School Sing-Song was held on Saturday, Nov. 4th. Programme—

Chorus—' The Poacher '
Part Song—' Sweet and Low '
	The Choir.
Chorus—' The bonnie Banks of Loch Lomond '
'Cello Solo—' Gavotte '
	Mr. R. F. Graham.
Song—' Jonathan Jones '
	O. D. Ballinger.
Part Song—' Oh, hush Thee my Baby '
	The Choir.
Clog Dance—
	E. S. Loveday.
Chorus—' A hunting we will go '
Song—' Simon the Cellarer '
	Mr. C. B. Matheson.
Monologue—
	Mr. A. Barker.
Chorus—' All through the Night '
Chorus—' Men of Harlech '

	Mr. C. B. Matheson.
Chorus—' Hearts of Oak '
Violin Solo—
	Miss Rhys.
Chorus—' Ar hyd y Nos '
Carmen.
	National Anthem.

Thus far the Sing-Songs have exceeded all expectations, and we are particularly grateful for the assistance of Mrs. Poole-Hughes, Miss Rhys, and those members of the staff who have helped. We would also like to thank Mr. A. Spencer-Jones, and to congratulate the choir on their efforts, which have been fully appreciated by the visitors and the School.
